Rewriting Saints and Ancestors Constance Brittain Bouchard, 2014-08-14 Thinkers in medieval France constantly reconceptualized what had come before interpreting past events to give validity to the present and help control the future The long dead saints who presided over churches and the ancestors of established dynasties were an especially crucial part of creative memory Constance Brittain Bouchard contends In Rewriting Saints and Ancestors she examines how such ex post facto accounts are less an impediment to the writing of accurate history than a crucial tool for understanding the Middle Ages Working backward through time Bouchard discusses twelfth century scribes contemplating the ninth century documents they copied into cartularies or reworked into narratives of disaster and triumph ninth century churchmen deliberately forging supposedly late antique documents as weapons against both kings and other churchmen and sixth and seventh century Gallic writers coming to terms with an early Christianity that had neither the saints nor the monasteries that would become fundamental to religious practice As they met with political change and social upheaval each generation decided which events of the past were worth remembering and which were to be reinterpreted or quietly forgotten By considering memory as an analytic tool Bouchard not only reveals the ways early medieval writers constructed a useful past but also provides new insights into the nature of record keeping the changing ways dynasties were conceptualized the relationships of the Merovingian and Carolingian kings to the church and the discovery or invention of Gaul's earliest martyrs
