Cycles, Sequels, Spin-offs, Remakes, and Reboots Amanda Ann Klein, R. Barton Palmer, 2016-03-15 With sequels prequels remakes spin offs or copies of successful films or franchises dominating film and television production it sometimes seems as if Hollywood is incapable of making an original film or TV show These textual pluralities or multiplicities while loved by fans who flock to them in droves tend to be dismissed by critics and scholars as markers of the death of high culture Cycles Sequels Spin offs Remakes and Reboots takes the opposite view surveying a wide range of international media multiplicities for the first time to elucidate their importance for audiences industrial practices and popular culture The essays in this volume offer a broad picture of the ways in which cinema and television have used multiplicities to streamline the production process and to capitalize on and exploit viewer interest in previously successful and or sensational story properties An impressive lineup of established and emerging scholars talk seriously about forms of multiplicity that are rarely discussed as such including direct to DVD films made in Nigeria cross cultural Japanese horror remakes YouTube fan generated trailer mash ups and 1970s animal revenge films They show how considering the particular bonds that tie texts to one another allows us to understand more about the audiences for these texts and why they crave a version of the same story or character or subject over and over again These findings demonstrate that far from being lowbrow art multiplicities are actually doing important cultural work that is very worthy of serious study Holston, 2012-12-13. This work examines a film distribution system paralleling the rise of early features and persisting until 1972 when Man of La Mancha was the final roadshow to require reserved seating. Synonymous with Hollywood's star-studded premieres, roadshows were longer and cost more than regular features, making the experience similar to attending the legitimate theater. Roadshows often epic in subject matter, played selected theaters in major urban centers until demand decreased. De rigueur by the 1960s were musical overtures, intermissions, entre acte and exit music, and souvenir programs for sale in the lobby. Throughout the text are recollections by people who attended roadshows, including actor John Kerr and actresses Barbara Eden and Ingrid Pitt. The focus is on roadshows released in the United States, but an appendix identifies international roadshows and films forecast but not released as roadshows. Included are plots, contemporary critical reaction, premiere dates, production background, and methods of promotion, i.e. the ballyhoo.
