Managing In Four Worlds:

Managing in Four Worlds Ronnie Lessem, 1997 Transformation Management Ronnie Lessem, Alexander Schieffer, 2016-02-17 The concept of transformation has long been known to the sciences and has been around in the popular vocabulary for several decades. Because it has never been fully developed as a managed process and applied to our organizations the way in which we have been trying to deal with the complex issues we face today is looking increasingly inadequate. Transformation management, argue the authors of this inspirational book, now provides the opportunity for the application of the first significant world wide innovation in the way we manage since Drucker put management itself on the map in the 1950s. In a book that draws on seminal theses and practical examples from the four corners of the world, Ronnie Lessem and Alexander Schieffer provide leaders, students of leadership, managers and change agents with a trans-culturally tested, integrated approach to leadership and management. Only through a redefinition of what leadership, management and entrepreneurship amount to, say the authors, can organizations be transformed into sustainable enterprises capable of dealing with the burning issues of our time. Leaders are coming to realise that it is no longer possible for organizations to operate in any sort of isolation from the society and the wider world in which they exist, but paying lip service to notions of either social responsibility or globality is not good enough. From this indispensable book, those whose enterprises are to have any hope of becoming authentically socially responsible or authentically global will learn to understand and activate the process that dynamically links any organization with the society in which it is embedded and that links the local with the global. The practice of transformation management is about creating real value for organizations, people and society. This book from the Transformation and Innovation Series makes that practice possible.

Agile Project Management Project Management Journal, 2013-06-26 The development of the Agile Movement, whatever the area of application or discipline, comes from the famous faster, cheaper, better maxim. As such, the agile manufacturing paradigm rests on four principles: response to change and uncertainty, supplying highly customized products, synthesis of diverse technologies, and intra-enterprise and inter-enterprise integration. For the reader interested in agile project management applications, response to changes and transformations and its impact on managing projects, this book is a must-read. Various insights are covered, including how to master complexity and changes in projects, economy and society; how interaction between the project management team and project owners can influence risk management; how to move beyond the traditional mechanistic project management approach; how to include agile principles into an improved Logical Framework Analysis structure; what the impact is of agile principles on project management organizations; what kind of innovative project management practice supports agile principles; and much more.

Finance and Society in 21st Century China Junie T. Tong, 2016-04-15 In this revealing book Junie Tong reflects on the role of banking and finance in China The author adopts a critical perspective that views the societal as well as economic functioning of banking and finance Finance and Society in 21st Century China considers how far the modern economy is disconnected from Chinese culture and history and the problems this separation may cause She questions the common assumption that China has outgrown its reliance on its Western counterparts The author believes that the country is still very much dependent on exports and foreign investments and any radical or rapid reduction in either would have serious adverse consequences for China's sustainable economic growth To provide a model for finance and society that integrates culture and economy Tong draws on the seminal work of Belgian economist banker and social commentator Bernard Lietaer who has focused on cultural forces and the future of money in the world generally Using representative case studies for illustration Tong applies Lietaer's work in a specifically Chinese context highlighting the need to root finance and enterprise in the rhythms and forces within Chinese culture to avoid future chaos and achieve socio economic stability in a country now so critical to global well being

Integral Renewal Ronnie Lessem, Alexander Schieffer, 2016-03-09

In 2010 Ronnie Lessem and Alexander Schieffer published their seminal work on Integral Research and Innovation whereby they identified the four R's relational and renewal reason and realization based research paths that altogether encompass the major qualitative research methods and methodologies Within each path they identified a trajectory from origination to transformation via foundation and emancipation However these paths underlying the research process conventionally termed method were disconnected from the integral economic and enterprise content conventionally termed literature with which they were concerned In this book Integral Renewal they seek to remedy such in two major respects As transformative masters and PhD programs are focused on the Global South where the vast majority of the world's population is based as well as those developmental agencies focused on such the great majority of the people with whom the authors deal select the relational research path and the path of renewal over and above the paths of reason and realization The focus of this book will be on these two paths of integral research now interconnected with integral enterprise and economics Uniquely the authors pursue research and innovation in a systematic way In that respect while their prior Integral Research book still provides the research foundation for the four southern and eastern northern and western paths this book will focus on the former two relational southern and renewal eastern from the combined perspectives of research process and economic and enterprise content

Transboundary Water Management Anton Earle, 2013 The management of water resources across boundaries whether sub national or international is one of the most difficult challenges facing water managers today The upstream exploitation or diversion of groundwater or rivers can have devastating consequences for those living downstream and transboundary rivers can provide a source of conflict between nations or states particularly where water resources are scarce Similarly water based pollution can spread across borders and create disputes and a need for sound governance This book is the first to bring together in a concise and accessible way all of the main topics to be considered when managing transboundary waters It will raise the awareness of practitioners of the various issues needed to be taken into account when making water management decisions and provide a practically based overview for advanced students The authors show clearly how vital it is to cooperate effectively over the management of shared waters to unlock their contribution to regional sustainable development The book is largely based on a long running and tested international training programme run by the Stockholm International Water Institute and Ramboll Natura and supported by the Swedish International Development Co operation Agency Sida where the respective authors have presented modules on the programmes It addresses issues not only of conflict but also of managing power asymmetries benefit sharing stakeholder participation international water law environmental water requirements and regional development It will be particularly useful for those with a background in hydrology or engineering who wish to broaden their management skills

Integral Community Ronnie Lessem, Paul Chidara Muchineripi, 2016-05-23 Integral Community moves the transformation journey for enterprises and society on from the stages covered in earlier books in Gower's Transformation and Innovation Series which describe a new macro economic framework and which have examined alternative development with different local communities bringing wide cultural perspectives to practical implementation of authentic or integral development Here the authors argue that there are two major fields of force prevailing in today's world The one reflects our common heritage whereby East and West North and South are coming ever closer together the global commons The other reflects local and national singularity where the notion of feeding off ancient local heritage and talent is key They also identify four different culturally laden worldviews as Southern humanistic Eastern holistic Northern rational and Western pragmatic The enterprise and social innovation in Africa with which Lessem's co authors are involved provides an object lesson in the sort of differentiation and integration needed in order to operate socio economically with local identity and global integrity It provides in this case a Southern worldview background against which to examine communally based self sufficiency culturally based developmental economy knowledge based social economy and finally the move towards what the authors describe as a living economy All illustrated through a rural case Chinyika with which they have been intimately involved whereby 100 000 have become self sufficient over the past five years Integral Community should be read by academics and students of business economics development studies and agriculture and by policy makers particularly those concerned with the developing world in general and Africa in particular

Spiritual Capital Samuel D. Rima, 2016-04-01 Presenting a thorough comprehensive theory of spiritual capital based on solid academic research Spiritual Capital serves to reinforce and amplify the notion of a moral economic core that is beginning to feature in contemporary economic arguments In this rare major work wholly dedicated to the subject of spiritual capital Sam Rima explains the desperate need for revolutionary and transformational thinking in the area of economic policy and practice and makes the case for a new moral foundation to business and economics that directly addresses today's financial and business crisis. Writing in an accessible style and drawing on examples from several continents, Rima explains spiritual capital theory in terms of the resources needed for its creation, how it is formed, how it can be invested, and what the return on investment can be. The book provides practical tools for measuring a personal or organizational store of spiritual capital along with clear guidelines on how to engage in spiritual capital formation. These will benefit business leaders interested in developing viable and sustainable enterprises capable of avoiding the disconnection between economic policy and social reality. There are also recommendations here for policy makers regarding the macro application of spiritual capital theory. This important contribution to Gower's Transformation and Innovation Series will appeal to business leaders and policy makers, academicians and students in the fields of sociology, theology, and economics, and anyone interested in social and economic justice issues, social innovation, and corporate social responsibility.

Prophecies and Protests Henk van den Heuvel, Mzamo Mangaliso, Lisa van de Bunt, 2006. What can managers around the globe learn from the indigenous African term Ubuntu, humane-ness? For the first time ever, African management advocates, interpretative scholars, and academic skeptics are brought together in a unique book displaying the richness of the debate on Afrocentric management vision. This debate is characterized by polarization, cultural protest, emancipatory aspiration, mystification, and opportunism. Prophecies and Protests offers a broad spectrum of remarkably diverse views from different backgrounds and could be seen as an important step to foster the dialogue between protagonists and critics between practitioners and academics. Especially today, the central theme of the book is relevant in an era of worldwide cultural diffusion and a longing for authenticity and romanticized histories.

W. C. van Lit,2017-04-01

One of the most controversial issues that divided Islamic philosophers and theologians during the Middle Ages was whether human beings would have a spiritual or bodily existence after death. The idea of a world of image was conceived as a solution suggesting that there exists a world of non physical imagined bodies beyond our earthly existence. This world may be reached in sleep in meditation or after death. From the embryonic conception by Ibn Sina to the radical rethinking by Suhrawardi and Shahrazuri into a sophisticated system, L. W. C. van Lint unravels the history of this idea. Using a distant reading approach for measuring the transmission, he further shows how the idea remained relevant for Muslim thinkers through the centuries up until today.

Beyond World Class C. Morton, 2016-01-18. Being world class is inextricably linked to being competitive. In this new book, the author builds upon Becoming World Class and incorporates his experience of introducing fundamental changes in a number of major organisations. The author discusses how organisations can compete when competitors have also introduced the management innovations of recent years and become lean. He argues that success comes not from making business processes more efficient but from the contribution of people, and he examines how companies can successfully motivate employees. This is an innovative book which puts forward a new approach for regional development in a global context. The author argues that the three elements of society, the firm and individual, must work together to achieve economic growth in these competitive and changing times.
