Academy of International Business ., 2014-12-02 In recent years an extensive range of new research has been revisiting the topic of the location of international business activities from a variety of different perspectives and background interests This work has been inspired in part by two apparently quite different but actually related contemporary trends on the one hand an emergence or revitalization of clusters of activities co located in or around selected global city regions or fast growing metropolitan areas and on the other hand an increased global dispersion of activities conducted within the value chains managed or coordinated by many large multinational enterprises and their business partners The former trend has given rise to discussions of how the elite of the cultural cognitive economy of the 21st century in Allen Scott's terminology or the creative class Richard Florida's term are now being drawn or brought back to major urban centers while the latter trend is associated with debates over outsourcing and the economic and social consequences of shifts in the ownership and location of distinct nodes of value chains once production systems become more fragmented and the component parts of such systems become more geographically dispersed An increased interest in the subject of international business location has been shown by scholars in Strategic Management in Economic Geography and in Regional Science as well as in our own interdisciplinary field of International Business Studies However as is often the case in academic research communities these bodies of scholarship have tended to develop at something of a distance from one another each conversing internally more than they have with one another Location of International Business Activities aims to promote a greater conversation between those interested in the topic of Location from various different backgrounds or starting points The articles are taken from a special issue on the theme of the Multinational in Geographic Space which was published by The Journal of International Business Studies in 2013

The Role of Universities in the Europe 2020 Strategy Alessandra Ricciardelli, 2017-10-31 This book provides a unique study of the role of universities as organisation systems in the pursuit of the Europe 2020 strategy While Europe 2020 focuses on creating the basis for the advancement and cohesion of the EU's member states it also has an important role in influencing the development strategies for potential candidate states In this regard the book examines two new member states Slovenia and Croatia and two potential EU candidate states Serbia and Kosovo in the Western Balkans Based on these cases the author argues that the operationalization of the Europe 2020 strategy depends to a great extent of the role and contribution of tertiary organisations such as educational institutions i.e. public and private universities and therefore requires the formulation of an economic development strategy at the national level that is capable of duly allocating the available financial resources The study suggests that the paradigm shift represented by Europe 2020 has helped to forge a new academic identity adding to the relevance of university organisations as fundamental agents for the promotion of economic development in addition it shows that an intensive learning process involving major structural changes is underway in the four countries discussed as well as many other EU member states
