

Managing an international business is different from managing a purely domestic business for all of the following reasons except:

- ☐ a. an international business must find ways to work within the limits imposed by government intervention in the international trade and investment system
- ☐ b. different languages have to be learned
- ☐ c. international transactions involve converting money into different currencies
- ☐ d. countries are different
- ☐ e. the range of problems confronted by a manager in an international business are narrower than those confronted by a manager in a domestic business
