Managing The Impact Of The Euro:

Managing the impact of changes in the value of the euro on EU funds Great Britain: National Audit Office, 2011-02-18 The National Audit Office believes more could be done to manage the risk of a reduction in the value of EU funds to the UK in the event of a depreciation in the euro The UK Government receives around 5 billion from the European Union each year to fund EU programmes in the UK However the relative value of the pound and the euro varies significantly with the exchange rate fluctuating by up to 14 per cent in a single month A 14 per cent change can lead to an increase or decrease of 700 million in the sterling value of funds provided by the EU if the exchange rate holds at that level The use of forward contracts a form of hedging where the department and a commercial bank agree an exchange rate in advance has helped reduce the potential funds exposed to a fall in value from 8.5 billion to 2.4 billion in 2009/10 However wider use of hedging could reduce still further the amount of taxpayer funds at risk Each department managing EU funds works in isolation on developing its policy Such an arrangement is not cost effective These departments would benefit from more detailed guidance from HM Treasury in this area and from developing more pooled expertise to reduce duplication of effort Government bodies require considerable expertise and support to ensure the most appropriate and cost effective hedging arrangements are put in place

ECKM2010-Proceedings of the 11th European Conference on Knowledge Management Eduardo Tomé, 2010 Financial Management in the European Union Great Britain. National Audit Office, 2009 This report summarises the results of the European Court of Auditors examination of the European Union's accounts for 2007 and progress on the range of initiatives taken forward by the Commission and Member States For the first time the Court provided a positive Statement of Assurance without qualification on the reliability of the Commission's accounts in effect confirming that they give a true and fair view But for the fourteenth successive year the Court did not provide a positive Statement of Assurance on whether the underlying transactions conformed to applicable laws and regulations Cohesion Policy funds which are designed to reduce disparities in the level of development between regions and Member States for example by supporting major infrastructure projects remain the most challenging component Based on its audit work the Court estimates that for expenditure on Cohesion projects at least 11 per cent should not have been reimbursed by the Commission in 2007 This conclusion reflects weakness in controls at Member State level but also the difficulty of implementing complex programmes In the Cohesion Policy area the Commission has increased the rate at which it recovers incorrect payments from Member States from 287 million euros in 2007 to 843 million in September 2008 and it predicts that further corrections will be finalised in Spring 2009 Financial corrections in future years could have an impact on the United Kingdom
