Critical-Care Nurses' Perceived Leadership Practices, Organizational Commitment, and Job

Satisfaction Ngozi I. Moneke, 2016-12-28 My writing of this book has evolved over the past thirty six years of professional nursing practice These were my first efforts as an author which were published in 2013 Promoting a Culture of Safety Preventing Central Line Infections in Weill Cornell Medical Center which used a performance improvement process to lower the rate at which critically ill patients in cardiac care developed central line infections and Factors Influencing Critical Nurses Perception of their Overall Job Satisfaction An Empirical Study which used a correctional approach and was statistically analyzed to determine the perception of critical care nurses of their manager s leadership style and its effect on their job satisfaction Having been on the receiving end of leadership behaviors gave me a firsthand opportunity to observe these diverse nurse leaders at both extremes of the spectrum from laissez faire leadership style to dictatorial leadership style and everything in between Each encounter has enriched my life immeasurably My personal and professional experiences as well as the knowledge I gained from completing my dissertation all compelled me to write this book to share with novice managers and those aspiring for a leadership role an awareness and provide them with some valuable information needed as they forge their career paths into a leadership role knowing that one of the keys to effective leadership is the ability to stay intellectually curious and committed to learning with the understanding that new knowledge can come from variety of sources and to make it a point of duty to be always on a lookout for new knowledge

Science and Practice of Pediatric Critical Care Medicine Derek S. Wheeler, Hector R. Wong, Thomas P. Shanley, 2008-12-03 The field of critical care medicine is in the midst of a dramatic change. Technological and scientific advances during the last decade have resulted in a fundamental change in the way we view disease processes such as sepsis, shock, acute lung injury, and traumatic brain injury. Pediatric intensivists have been both witness to and active participants in bringing about these changes. As the understanding of the pathogenesis of these diseases reaches the cellular and molecular levels, the gap between critical care medicine and molecular biology will disappear. It is imperative that all physicians caring for critically ill children in this new era have a thorough understanding of the applicability of molecular biology to the care of these patients at the bedside in order to keep up with the rapidly evolving field of critical care medicine. To the same extent, the practice of critical care medicine is in the midst of fundamental change. In keeping with the Institute of Medicine's report Crossing the Quality Chasm, the care of critically ill and injured children needs to be safe, evidence-based, equitable, efficient, timely, and family-centered. In the following pages, these changes in our specialty are discussed in greater scope and detail, offering the reader fresh insight into not only where we came from but also where we are going as a specialty.
