Eating Hints Nancy Suski, Bonny L. Johnson, Marion E. Morra, 1981. The Office of Cancer Communications, National Cancer Institute, is pleased to reprint this book which was written by members of the Yale New Haven Medical Center. Marion E. Morra, Communications Director; Nancy Suski, dietitian; and Bonny L. Johnson, Oncology Nurse. The book was written to help cancer patients, their families and friends find ways to eat well and to enjoy eating, particularly at those times when cancer treatment or the disease itself causes problems. The book is based on interviews with 99 cancer patients who live in the New Haven, Connecticut area. The authors report that despite the different kinds of cancers and the different treatments, eating problems experienced by these 99 patients fell into five general categories: nausea and vomiting, loss of appetite, mouth soreness and dryness, tired feeling and intestinal upset. The information, advice and helpful hints for dealing with these problems were culled from discussions with these patients and their families. There are also some suggestions from members of the Yale School of Nursing and the Connecticut Division of the American Cancer Society. The recipes included have been chosen to help solve the problems discussed. All of them are easy to prepare Many are old favorites which have been changed adding extra protein or other nutrients All recipes have been taste tested with the help of the Regional Visiting Nurses Agency that serves the New Haven area of Connecticut

Nutritional Oncology George L. Blackburn, Vay Liang W. Go, John Milner, 2011-05-02 Nutritional oncology is an increasingly active interdisciplinary field where cancer is investigated as both a systemic and local disease originating with the changes in the genome and progressing through a multi step process which may be influenced at many points in its natural history by nutritional factors that could impact the prevention of cancer the quality of life of cancer patients and the risk of cancer recurrence in the rapidly increasing population of cancer survivors Since the first edition of this book was published in 1999 the idea that there is a single gene pathway or single drug will provide a cure for cancer has given way to the general view that dietary environmental factors impact the progression of genetic and cellular changes in common forms of cancer This broad concept can now be investigated within a basic and clinical research context for specific types of cancer This book attempts to cover the current available knowledge in this new field of nutritional oncology written by invited experts This book attempts to provide not only the theoretical and research basis for nutritional oncology but will offer the medical oncologist and other members of multidisciplinary groups treating cancer patients practical information on nutrition assessment and nutritional regimens including micronutrient and phytochemical supplementation The editors hope that this volume will stimulate increased research education and patient application of the principles of nutritional oncology NEW TO THIS EDITION Covers hot new topics of nutrigenomics and nutrigenetics in cancer cell growth Includes new chapters on metabolic networks in cancer cell growth nutrigenetics and nutrigenomics Presents substantially revised chapters on breast cancer and nutrition prostate cancer and nutrition and colon cancer and nutrition Includes new illustrations throughout the text especially in the breast cancer chapter Includes integrated insights into the unanswered questions and clearly defined objectives of research in nutritional oncology Offers practical guidelines for clinicians advising malnourished cancer patients and cancer survivors on diet nutrition and lifestyle Provides information on the role of bioactive substances dietary supplements phytochemicals and botanicals in cancer prevention and treatment Nutrition and the Cancer Patient
