Nutrition Policy Implementation Nevin S. Scrimshaw, Mitchel B. Wallerstein, 2012-12-06 The MIT International Nutrition Planning Program INP was initiated in the fall of 1972 with a grant from the Rockefeller Foundation later supplemented by funds from USAID under the 2110 Program Conceived as a multidisciplinary undertaking the INP was a joint effort of the Department of Nutrition and Food Science and the Center for International Studies at MIT that also included representatives of the Departments of Economics Political Science Urban Studies Humanities Anthropology and Civil Engineering It has been successful in attracting graduate students and conducting research on various international food and nutrition problems including the design of intervention programs A condition of the original grant from the Rockefeller Foundation was the organization of a meeting to summarize and evaluate the progress of the program It was ultimately decided that the best approach would be a workshop that would attempt to assess what had been learned about the implementation of food and nutrition policies since the start of the INP Out of concern for food and nutrition policy issues the World Hunger Programme of The United Nations University UNU and the Ford Foundation also agreed to cosponsor the workshop

The political economy of food and nutrition policies Per Pinstrup-Andersen, 1993-01-01 Few nutritionists and economists fully appreciate how the political environment shapes policy and subsequently affects the relevance of their policy recommendations When governments fail to follow the recommendations of nutritionists and economists and are unable to design and implement cost effective nutrition programs and policies it is often attributed to politics or to lack of political will on the part of decisionmakers Past nutrition planning efforts frequently failed to understand the goals and behavior of the various agents and institutions inside and outside the government that in the final analysis determine whether the planning effort is successful In The Political Economy of Food and Nutrition Policies Per Pinstrup Andersen brings together a group of distinguished authorities to improve the understanding of how nutrition policies are formulated within larger political and economic contexts and how public sector agencies behave with regard to food and nutrition Handbook of Nutrition and Ophthalmology Richard David Semba,2007-12-06 The Nutrition and Health series of books have as an overriding mission to provide health professionals with texts that are considered essential because each includes 1 a synthesis of the state of the science 2 timely in depth reviews by the leading researchers in their respective fields 3 extensive up to date fully annotated reference lists 4 a detailed index 5 relevant tables and figures 6 identification of paradigm shifts and the consequences 7 virtually no overlap of information between chapters but targeted inter chapter referrals 8 suggestions of areas for future research and 9 balanced data driven answers to patient health professionals questions which are based upon the totality of evidence rather than the findings of any single study The series volumes are not the outcome of a symposium Rather each editor has the potential to examine a chosen area with a broad perspective both in subject matter as well as in the organization of their volume The international perspective especially with regard to public health initiatives is emphasized where appropriate The editors whose trainings are both research and practice oriented have the opportunity to develop a primary objective for their book define the scope and focus and then may invite the leading authorities from around the world to be part of their initiative The editor authors are encouraged to provide an overview of the field discuss their own research and relate the research findings to potential human health consequences Completing the Food Chain Smithsonian Institution,1989 The Political Economy of Hunger: Volume 1: Entitlement and Well-being Jean Dreze (ed),Amartya Sen,1990 Part of a major report on world hunger instigated by the World Institute for Development Economics Research this volume deals with possible solutions to the problem of regular outbreaks of famine in various parts of the world

Sociologies of Food and Nutrition Wm. Alex McIntosh,2013-11-21 Here Wm Alex McIntosh analyzes the relationship between food and nutrition and social factors using a wide array of sociological theories The author applies theories of social organization culture social stratification social change rural sociology the sociology of the body and social problems to empirical problems in food and nutrition By doing so he sheds light on issues such as the rise of the state population growth famine obesity eating disorders the maldistribution of food across class gender and ethnic boundaries and the changing nature of the food industry An Anthology Regarding Merit Goods Wilfried Ver Eecke,2007 Merit Goods are those goods and services that the government feels that people will under consume and which therefore ought to be subsidized or provided free at the point of use The consumption of merit goods is thought to generate positive externality effects where the social benefit from consumption exceeds the private benefit Examples of merit goods are health services education public libraries and inoculations against certain diseases Van Eecke has assembled a collection of articles and papers that covers the issue of merit goods from a variety of perspectives and has provided a single source for researchers and economist interested in the issue The work begins with a thorough look at Musgrave s notion of merit goods The subsequent sections expand the definition of merit goods and provide information on the application of merit goods theory in economic philosophical social and religious terms The reference also has an extensive bibliography

Food and Nutrition Plan, 1988-1992 New York State Council on Food and Nutrition Policy, 1988 Current Catalog
National Library of Medicine (U.S.), Human Well-Being and the Natural Environment Partha Dasgupta, 2001-11-15
In Human Well Being and the Natural Environment Partha Dasgupta explores ways to measure the quality of life. In developing quality of life indices he pays particular attention to the natural environment illustrating how it can be incorporated more generally into economic reasoning in a seamless manner. Professor Dasgupta puts the theory that he develops to use in extended commentaries on the economics of population poverty traps global warming structural adjustment programmes and free trade particularly in relation to poor countries. The result is a treatise that goes beyond quality of life measures and offers a comprehensive account of the newly emergent subject of ecological economics. With the publication of this new paperback edition Professor Dasgupta has taken the opportunity to update and revise his text in a number of ways including developments to facilitate its current use on a number of graduate courses in environmental and resource economics. The treatment of the welfare economics of imperfect economies has been developed using new findings and the Appendix has been expanded to include applications of the theory to a number of institutions and to develop approximate formulae for estimating the value of environmental natural resources Measuring Welfare Benefits from Marketing Improvements Keith Owen Fuglie, 1993 Cities and Agriculture Henk de Zeeuw, Pay Drechsel, 2015-09-16
As people increasingly migrate to urban settings and more than half of the world's population now lives in cities it is vital to plan and provide for sustainable and resilient food systems which reflect this challenge. This volume presents experience and evidence based state of the art chapters on the key dimensions of urban food challenges and types of intra and peri urban agriculture. The book provides urban planners local policy makers and urban development practitioners with an overview of crucial aspects of urban food systems based on an up to date review of research results and practical experiences in both developed and developing countries. By doing so the international team of authors provides a balanced textbook for students of the growing number of courses on sustainable agriculture food and urban studies as well as a solid basis for well informed policy making planning and implementation regarding the development of sustainable resilient and just urban food systems.
