

Aims. Gain an insight into learnings/pitfalls that existing services have met whilst setting up/running intensive outpatient pathways/ services (IOS).

Methods. 4 Focus Groups (FGs) were conducted virtually through MS Teams from December 2022- January 2023 of duration 90 minutes each for health professionals involved in a leadership role in IOS pathways across England. The FGs were recorded with participant consent, transcribed and analysed with an inductive approach for thematic analysis.

Results. 4 main themes emerged including (i) patient and (ii) team considerations, (iii) approach and (iv) commissioning. A key sub-theme emphasised the importance of flexible and creative approaches in IOS to supplement existing evidence base therapies as well as the importance of a well-rounded MDT approach with good communication across the board. Key set-ups include: enhanced outpatient offers, home treatments, in-reach, and hybrid.

Conclusion. Intensive outpatient services for EDs allows an enhanced community offer that is needs led and flexible and individualised approach.

A Service Evaluation and Improvement Project: Outcomes of Referrals From Prison to the Male Psychiatric Intensive Care Unit (PICU) in Kent

Dr Shantala Satisha*, Dr Jenny Dunn, Dr Francis Felix and Dr Vijay Delaffon

Willow Suite PICU, Littlebrook Hospital, Dartford, United Kingdom

Aims. Aims: The project aims to evaluate the referrals from prison services for admission to our PICU from June 2020 to October 2021. Hypothesis: We expect referrals to come from multiple sources with variable timeframes for assessment. For those admitted to PICU, we expect delays in transfer out of PICU with increased PICU length of stay. We believe this to be secondary to lack of an established protocol for this pathway. Background: Our single 12 bedded male PICU in the trust has seen increased demands on its beds for prisoners requiring admission to mental health services. While PICU beds can meet the low secure requirements for prison transfers, they cannot function as forensic low secure beds due to their role within Acute services. With the increased number of referrals and the lack of a clearly defined pathway for these prison transfers, there was a risk of erosion of PICU philosophy aiming for discharge at the point when intensive care was not required, i.e. increased length of stay.

Methods. Data were collected for all referrals from prison services to the male PICU between June 2020 and October 2021, recording the demographics, clinical information and timeframes for assessment. For those admitted to the PICU, percentage meeting the PICU criteria, admission-discharge pathways, serious untoward incidents and delays in transfer were recorded.

Results. There were 22 referrals from prisons, of which 11 (50%) were admitted to the male PICU. The referrals came from multiple sources with poor coordination between the PICU, forensic and prison services with delays in assessment. 100% of the admissions met criteria for PICU. There were 2 serious incidents related to security levels of the environment. The pathway out of PICU included prison, forensic services and acute wards. Over half the patients were downgraded to non-restricted detentions and stepped down to acute beds. There was a delay in transferring out of PICU in 36% of the patients leading to increased length of stay.

Conclusion. In conclusion, the data support our initial concerns that there is a need for a protocol guiding the transfer of prisoners to our PICU for treatment. This has led to discussions to develop such a protocol with close collaboration between prisons, forensic services and PICU. We hope this will lead to a much smoother process from having a single point of referral, timely assessments and decisions making, better defined exit pathways with less delays in transfer from PICU.

A Qualitative Evaluation of the Quality of Assessments for the Psychological Medicine in Primary Care Service: A Patient Perspective

Dr Zahra Patel¹, Dr Fiona Shaw^{2*}, Dr Oluwatoyin Aliu³, Dr Claire Moffat² and Dr Mustafa Alachkar³

¹Greater Manchester Mental Health NHS Foundation Trust, Manchester, United Kingdom; ²Pennine Care NHS Foundation Trust, Manchester, United Kingdom and ³Merseycare NHS Foundation Trust, Liverpool, United Kingdom

doi: 10.1192/bjo.2023.391

Aims. Background: Psychological Medicine in Primary Care, Stockport works with people with persistent physical symptoms and personality difficulties whose psychological needs cannot be met by existing services due to complexity. The service views the assessment process as a therapeutic intervention in its own right and utilises a relational, formulation-based approach over 2 to 5 sessions. A letter including this formulation is sent following assessment to both the patient and their GP.

Aims:

1. To evaluate the quality of the assessments from a patient perspective.
2. To improve the quality of the assessments in order to improve patient care and the support offered to patients.

Methods. A short questionnaire with open questions was created. Thirty-two patients assessed by the service took part in semi-structured interviews by means of a short telephone discussion after consent was taken. Three independent investigators reviewed their responses and performed thematic analysis, using an inductive and recursive approach.

Results.

Theme 1: The understanding of the service and awareness of the referral affects the perception of the assessment.

Theme 2: There can be therapeutic gain in the assessment process, which appears to be mediated by the relationship with the assessors including:

- Emotional catharsis
- Having a wider perspective of personal issues
- Developing new coping mechanisms
- Regaining a sense of agency
- Gaining a sense of hope
- Developing a better understanding of emotions
- Having a different experience to past encounters with mental health services
