Open Economies Structural Adjustment And Agriculture:

Open Economies Ian Goldin, L. Alan Winters, Centre for Economic Policy Research (Great Britain), 1992-05-28 Examines the interaction between macroeconomic and agricultural sector reforms in developing and East European economies

Agriculture in Liberalizing Economies DINA L. UMALI, Charles Maguire, 1995 Discusses ways in which the role of the state in promoting agricultural growth and development may be redefined This report presents the proceedings of the 14th World Bank Agricultural Symposium held in January 1994 The papers explore ways in which the role of the state in promoting agricultural growth and development may be redefined They also capitalize on important lessons emerging from experiences around the world The report suggests that changing the role of government from market domination towards the provision of a regulatory framework that facilitates private sector activity is an ongoing process rather than a one time occurrence The papers also illustrate the wide variety of issues and the different approaches in the various countries that are redefining the role of government in agricultural development

Reforming agricultural markets in Africa Kherallah, Mylene, Delgado, Christopher L., Gabre-Madhin, Eleni Z., Minot, Nicholas, Johnson, Michael, 2002-01-01 The long term reduction of hunger and poverty in Sub Saharan Africa remains one of the great challenges for the international development community Eliminating hunger and promoting widespread growth in the region inevitably involves agriculture given its central role in the region's economies Over the past 20 years most African governments have carried out reforms to deregulate agricultural markets and reduce the role of state enterprises How much has the state actually withdrawn from agricultural markets Have well functioning private markets emerged How successful were these reforms in boosting agricultural production economic growth and the incomes of the rural poor What lessons can we learn from the reform process The authors of this book address these questions through an analysis based on an extensive review of experiences with reform focusing on three major agricultural markets fertilizer food crops and export crops They examine the historical rationales for intervention the factors contributing to reform the process of implementation and the impact of the reforms on farmers and consumers in Sub Saharan Africa The authors find that reforms have had many favorable results but that the impact has been muted by partial implementation and structural constraints They propose a new agenda for promoting the development of agricultural markets in Sub Saharan Africa identifying areas where governments can play a supportive role They argue that appropriate agricultural marketing policies and investments can improve livelihoods and the economic health of the region

Economic Crisis and Third World Agriculture Ajit Singh, Hamid Tabatabai, 1993-10-21 Examines the effects of world economic crisis on agrarian development at a regional and global level

The Effects of Economic Adjustment on Poverty in Mexico Thomas J. Kelly, 2018-12-07 First published in 1999 this study seeks to explore the effects of economic adjustment and why the classical prescriptions for structural adjustment did not succeed in Mexico or at best succeeded only partially It asks why growth was retarded not accelerated inequality rose rather than fell poverty increased rather than declined informalization of the economy occurred rather than modernization Mexico's story needs to be better known and this book is a good place to begin containing numerous insights and valuable lessons for analysts and policy makers alike

Agriculture and the Macroeconomy Simon Appleton, Paul Collier, 1991

Political Economy Of Agricultural Trade-related Policies In China Wenshou Yan, 2020-09-10

Agricultural Trade Conflicts And Gatt Giovanni Anania, 2019-03-13

Agricultural trade always a source of international friction will remain a contentious issue in the years to come The GATT agreement achieved only partial trade liberalization recognizing this the agreement calls for a continuation of the negotiation process to achieve the long run goal of a substantial reduction in agricultural support and protection In any case it is clear that U S European Union EU agricultural trade relations will remain central to any future negotiation In this volume leading experts present a comprehensive set of analyses of the U S EU agricultural trade conflict The discussions provide a unique perspective on the U S EU agricultural trade confrontation in recent years and offer insights into both the final GATT agreement and forthcoming agricultural issues Presenting a broad historical context the book focuses on changes in U S and European trade and agricultural policies looking at the implications of these changes for bilateral relations and global agricultural markets Providing U S EU and third party perspectives the contributors analyze the negotiation process in the Uruguay Round of the GATT Finally the book explores several additional dimensions of the U S EU agricultural trade conflict including the consequences of the EU integration and enlargement processes the environmental impact of the Union's agricultural policies and the mechanisms and forces that determine agricultural policy formation in both the United States and in Europe

Distortions to Agricultural Incentives in Africa Kym Anderson, William A. Masters, 2009-03-13

The vast majority of the world's poorest households depend on farming for their livelihoods During the 1960s and 1970s most developing countries imposed pro urban and anti agricultural policies while many high income countries restricted agricultural imports and subsidized their farmers Both sets of policies inhibited economic growth and poverty alleviation in developing countries Although progress has been made over the past two decades to reduce those policy biases many trade and welfare reducing price distortions remain between agriculture and other sectors and within the agricultural sector of both rich and poor countries Comprehensive empirical studies of the disarray in world agricultural markets appeared approximately 20 years ago Since then the Organisation for Economic Co operation and Development has provided estimates each year of market distortions in high income countries but there have been no comparable estimates for the world's developing countries This volume is the third in a series other volumes cover Asia Europe's transition economies and Latin America and the Caribbean that not only fills that void for recent years but extends the estimates in a consistent and comparable way back in time and provides analytical narratives for scores of countries that shed light on the evolving nature and extent of policy interventions over the past half century Distortions to Agricultural Incentives in Africa provides an overview of the evolution of distortions to agricultural incentives caused by price and trade policies in the Arab Republic of Egypt plus 20 countries that account for about of 90 percent of Sub Saharan Africa s population farm households agricultural output and overall GDP Sectoral trade and exchange rate policies in the region have changed greatly since the 1950s and there have been substantial reforms since the 1980s Nonetheless numerous price distortions in this region remain others have been added in recent years and there has also been some backsliding such as in Zimbabwe The new empirical indicators in these country studies provide a strong evidence based foundation for assessing the successes and failures of the past and for evaluating policy options for the years ahead

Lobbying and agricultural trade policy in the United States Kishore S. Gawande, Bernard M. Hoekman, 2006 The authors study whether political campaign contributions influence agricultural protection in the United States in the manner suggested by the political economy model of Grossman and Helpman 1994 This is the first attempt to test this model using agricultural data The authors test the model using a detailed cross sectional data set of agricultural protection subsidies and political action committee PAC contributions in the late 1990s The model is qualitatively affirmed by the data They make a novel attempt to solve a puzzle about the model s quantitative implications also found in recent studies This solution makes the simple model consistent with the complicated decisionmaking process in real world government The results imply the underpinnings of a political economy equilibrium that will be hard to dislodge

Handbook of Agricultural Economics Robert E. Evenson, Prabhu Pingali, 2009-10-20 Advances in agriculture offer many countries the best and only chance of reducing poverty Yet economic growth and population increases are driving higher demand for food and rising real prices What solutions have successfully promoted agriculture This volume examines national and international food agriculture policies and how they enhance agricultural productivity growth It provides unique historical reviews on policies and their effects and it clearly articulates both positive and negative lessons for promoting agriculture lead growth With chapters written by international authorities this book recognizes that agriculture is not just about providing food for today but about growing it in an environmentally sustainable way that can help people work their ways out of poverty Chapters cover international macro economic policies and trade farm structure in developing countries regional experiences in agriculture and regional studies on agricultural productivity policies

Structural Change and Exchange Rate Dynamics Paul J.J. Welfens, Anna Wziatek-Kubiak, 2005-12-06 Structural change economic growth and adequate exchange rate adjustment are key challenges in the context of EU eastern enlargement as are consistent macroeconomic policies The authors focus on sectoral adjustment across industries in catching up countries and explain changes in the composition of output this includes new aspects of the Chenery model They describe and analyze the spatial pattern of specialization and adjustment in many countries Theoretical and empirical analysis of foreign direct investment innovation and structural change shed new light on economic dynamics in Old Europe and New Europe As regards exchange rate dynamics both traditional aspects such as the Balassa Samuelson effect and new approaches to understanding exchange rate developments are presented Links between exchange rate changes and innovation are particularly emphasized      World Bank Anne C. M.
