pursuit of German forces which came to a temporary halt at the West Wall took place from 25 July to 12 September 1944. The operation was characterized by rapid independent operations conducted by individual armored combat commands. The principal antagonists were the Allied Forces under the direction of General Eisenhower and the German Oberbefehlshaber Theater Headquarters West.

The Armoured Campaign in Normandy Stephen Napier, 2015-07-01. Beginning with the D-day landings, this is a brutally frank appraisal of the planned use and actual results of the deployment of armor by both German and Allied commanders in the major tank battles of the Normandy campaign, including operations Epsom, Goodwood, Cobra, and Totalize. The Armoured Campaign in Normandy is a critique of Montgomery's plans to seize territory and break out and describes how they failed in the face of German resistance. It details the poor planning and mistakes of British senior commanders and how the German Army's convoluted chain of command contributed to their own defeat; these were decisions taken which cost the lives of the tank crews of both sides ordered to carry them out. Official reports, war diaries, after-action reports, letters, regimental histories, memoirs of generals, and recollections of tank men are used to tell the inside story of the campaign from an armor point of view to give a different but detailed perspective of the Normandy campaign from the men who fought in it.

Operation Cobra Frederick Smith, 2017-12-20. Spring 1944. In a fortified chateau hidden deep in the valleys of France, the Nazis are in the final stages of developing a terrifyingly deadly new weapon. Success would mean sure destruction for much of England and would dash all Allied hopes for a Normandy invasion. It's up to the daring fighter pilots and crack navigators of the 633 Squadron to penetrate German defenses and, in the black of night, blast the doomsday project into extinction. Against incredible odds, this is the 633's Operation Cobra. Failure could forever alter the future of the free world.
