Operation Mercury:

Operation Mercury John Sadler, 2007-07-01 An in depth account of the invasion of Crete by Nazi Germany during World War II the courageous civilian resistance and the Allies devastating defeat Unlike the few other books written on the catastrophic fall of Crete in May 1941 this book concentrates on the military actions between the first German paratroop landing on 20 May and the final defeat and evacuation on 30 May As well as studying the strengths tactics leadership and weapons of both sides the book contains numerous graphic personal anecdotes by participants be they German Allied or Cretan While the battle was a decisive defeat for the Allies the Germans made a disastrous start How they recovered from this so spectacularly is well covered This is a worthy addition to the Battleground series being both a fine study of the conflict and an invaluable guide The author has visited Crete on many occasions and knows the ground well Operation Mercury Marcel G. Comeau, 1991 Self-Inflicted Wound: Allied Defeat In Crete, May 1941 Major Andrew J. Kostic, 2015-11-06 The Germans appeared unstoppable during the early stages of World War II Inexperienced Allied forces were willing to fight but the sentiment was the Germans were too powerful Defeat became a forgone conclusion To defend at all costs no longer appeared viable Withdrawal and evacuation seemed almost commonplace in Allied strategy Great Britain and Germany identified early in the war the strategic importance of the island of Crete for conducting military operations in the Mediterranean Operationally the British maintained naval supremacy in the Mediterranean while the German Luftwaffe ruled the skies The German plan for the occupation of Crete Operation MERCURY called for gliders and Hitler s elite paratroops to conduct the largest airborne operation to date The plan pitted 22 000 men and 1280 aircraft against an erroneously estimated enemy strength of 5 000 men The success of this plan relied upon surprise and the paratroops securing one of the three airfields on the island so reinforcements could be flown in A reluctant Crete Force Commander set the tone for subordinate commanders leadership failures The invasion began the morning of 20 May 1941 The Germans suffered heavy casualties At the end of the first day of fighting they were short ammunition and the Allies maintained control of the airfields However the battalion commander defending the airfield at Maleme lacking communications and situational awareness was unaware of the success of his unit and that night mistakenly ordered its withdrawal from the airfield The Germans occupied the airfield in the morning and reinforcements were flown in The Allies conducted an attack the night of 21 May to retake the airfield but poor Allied leadership at the Brigade and Division level resulted in failure Consequently the Germans were able to mass combat power on the island and defeat the Allies Self-Inflicted Wound Allied Defeat in Crete, May 1941 Samuel J. Kostic, 2010-05 Leadership failures in the defense of Crete were essential factors contributing to Allied defeat on the island in May 1941 The Germans appeared unstoppable during the early stages of World War II Inexperienced Allied forces were willing to fight but the sentiment was the Germans were too powerful Defeat became a foregone conclusion To defend at all costs no longer appeared viable Withdrawal and evacuation seemed almost commonplace in Allied strategy

Great Britain and Germany identified early in the war the strategic importance of the island of Crete for conducting military operations in the Mediterranean. Operationally the British maintained naval supremacy in the Mediterranean while the German Luftwaffe ruled the skies. The Allies began defending Crete in November 1940. However the Middle East Command put little effort into defending the island and changed Crete Force Commanders on a monthly basis. Allied intelligence uncovered the details of the German invasion plan for Crete. In a last ditch effort forces evacuated from Greece were sent to Crete to bolster the defenses. This brought the total number of Allied defenders to 42 500 to repel an estimated enemy assault of 5 000 men. The German plan for the occupation of Crete Operation MERCURY called for gliders and Hitler's elite paratroops to conduct the largest airborne operation to date. The plan pitted 22 000 men and 1280 aircraft against an erroneously estimated enemy strength of 5 000 men. The success of this plan relied upon surprise and the paratroops securing one of the three airfields on the island so reinforcements could be flown in. A reluctant Crete Force Commander set the tone for subordinate commanders leadership failures. The invasion began the morning of 20 May 1941. The Germans suffered heavy casualties. At the end of the first day of fighting they were short ammunition and the Allies maintained control of the airfields. However the battalion commander defending the airfield at Maleme lacking communications and situational awareness was unaware of the success of his unit and that night mistakenly ordered its withdrawal from the airfield. The Germans occupied the airfield in the morning and reinforcements were flown in. The Allies conducted an attack the night of 21 May to retake the airfield but poor Allied leadership at the Brigade and Division level resulted in failure. Consequently the Germans were able to mass combat power on the island and defeat the Allies. The defenders outnumbered the attackers nearly 2 to 1. Knew the invasion plan and established their defense accordingly. By all accounts the Allies should have defeated the Germans and in fact came quite close to doing so. However failures in Allied leadership afforded the Germans opportunities that were quickly exploited. Subsequently they were able to defeat the Allies within 12 days. Failure in Allied leadership not overwhelming German combat power was responsible for the Allied defeat on Crete. Library of Congress

This as well as the outbreak of famine drove many Greeks to join a variety of resistance movements in the mountains. The British government anticipated the German occupation of Europe and created the Special Operations Executive SOE One directorate of the SOE was responsible for partisan activity in the mountains and another directorate focused on encouraging espionage and sabotage in Greek cities Over 3000 Greeks and British operated espionage networks that made a significant contribution to the war effort in the Mediterranean Unfortunately the work of the spy and saboteur working in the shadows remained classified until the end of the twentieth century The release of SOE documents in the twenty first century provides an amazing insight into how intelligence operations were a critical part of the Allied victory of the Second World War The aim of the book is to bring to life the stories of the ghosts of the shadow war

Operation Pedestal 1942 Angus Konstam, 2023-10-26 A fascinating story of a key turning point in the War in the Mediterranean as the island of Malta was thrown a vital lifeline Since 1940 the island of Malta had been a thorn in the Axis side It sat astride the direct sea route between Italy and its North African colonies and from 1941 the Royal Navy had used the island as a base for its attacks on Axis convoys The island though relied on convoys to survive and from early 1941 these came under increasingly heavy air and submarine attack As the situation became critical in 1942 the decision was made to send through a heavily protected convoy carrying fuel and supplies in an effort to save the island This mission was codenamed Operation Pedestal This fascinating work describes how after leaving Britain on 2 August 1942 the convoy was repeatedly pummeled by Axis air and submarine attacks as it ground its way towards Malta with most of the merchant ships sunk during the passage along with an aircraft carrier and two cruisers It also explores how despite this grim toll the sacrifice was worth it The specially commissioned illustrations in this work cover the progress of the convoy step by step the submarine and surface naval actions during Pedestal's voyage the Stuka attack on the carrier Indomitable and the air attacks against the convoy and the broader strategic situation in the Western Mediterranean The result is a unique visual exploration of one of the most famous episodes of the war in this theatre
