The Bereavement of Martyred

Palestinian Children Maram Masarwi, 2019-11-11 This book examines the phenomenon of individual and collective bereavement in Palestinian society. It seeks to explore the boundaries of the discourse of bereavement and commemoration in that society through the interactive relations between religion, nationality and gender and the ways these influence the shaping of the mourning process for Palestinian parents who have lost their children in the second al Aqsa Intifada. Over the course of the book's five chapters, Maram Masarwi scrutinizes how these components have shaped the differences in behavior between bereaved fathers and bereaved mothers, what characterizes these differences, how they are expressed and how they have managed to shape the characteristics of the experience of Palestinian bereavement. Mother-daughter Incest Beverly A. Ogilvie, 2004 Mother Daughter Incest: A Guide for Helping Professionals illuminates the rarely examined phenomenon and aftermath of mother-daughter incest, focusing on the victim's perception of and reaction to her experience. This unique book integrates psychological theory and practical interventions with the words of the survivors themselves. Their revealing and moving first-person testimonies keenly articulate daughters' reactions to sexual abuse at the hands of their mothers, their past and present relationships with their mothers, and their perceptions of the impact of their mothers' abuse on their lives. Child Trauma Handbook Ricky Greenwald, 2014-04-04 Understanding trauma, Evaluation and treatment planning, Safety and strength building, Trauma resolution, Making the most of gains, Helping the child in daily life. Effects of and Interventions for Childhood Trauma from Infancy Through Adolescence Sandra Hutchison, 2012-12-06 Successfully reach out and help children through the worst times of their young lives. Effects of and Interventions for Childhood Trauma from Infancy Through Adolescence: Pain Unspeakable explores an array of trauma-related topics pertaining to children of all ages from a variety of cultures and countries. This book covers the various ego stages of child development and addresses how each one is affected by traumatic experiences. This easy-to-read resource serves as a readily available reference for caregivers, professional or otherwise, who work with or encounter a child who has been traumatized. In Effects of and Interventions for Childhood Trauma from Infancy Through Adolescence, you'll find actual accounts of traumatic incidents throughout the world, focused specifically on those incidents that have the most devastating impact on large groups of children. This book reviews the research on post-traumatic stress disorder and stress response-related symptoms with brief descriptions of treatments for you to use with children who suffer from post-traumatic stress. Special features of this important tool consist of an extensive list of organizations and crisis hotline numbers, as well as recommended reading, video, and curricula resources. Effects of and Interventions for Childhood Trauma from Infancy Through Adolescence examines traumatic situations from many angles, including the many faces of trauma: accidents, fire, natural disasters, developmental considerations, including ego development, memory development, and the development of fears and responses, the way children respond to traumatic incidents, the types of interventions: individual, group, family, pharmacological, and school-based, cultural considerations from around the globe, how to establish a school-based Trauma Response Team. Effects of and

Interventions for Childhood Trauma from Infancy Through Adolescence includes real case studies fictional sample cases and suggestions that walk you step by step through the possible scenarios that can occur with children during or after a traumatic event Each section of the book ends with a helpful summary highlighting the most important information

Planting Hatred, Sowing Pain Moises F. Salinas, 2007-05-30 As renewed hatred pumped the people of Israel and Palestine in summer 2006 fueling a flurry of bombings kidnappings and murders author Moises Salinas continued research and interviews for this book in those nations In Planting Hatred Sowing Pain the psychology professor explains why it often seems this conflict that has been raging more than 70 years is illogical While in recent years both groups have basically agreed on the broad parameters of a peace agreement the fight still continues Salinas argues that the obstacles to achieving a solution are not just political but also psychological He shows that just as disagreements over borders refugees and settlements keep the parties from the negotiating table so do psychological factors including mistrust hatred stereotypes and prejudice The world has known many periods when two factions manifested such strong hatred of each other that bloody conflicts were regular ongoing unsurprising events But there is perhaps no modern conflict as sustained as that of the ongoing Israel Palestine conflict Through interviewees ranging from an Israeli right wing settler and a Palestinian militant to commoners on both sides who were simply victims of violence Salinas shows how the hatred and mistrust were created and why they persist The book includes compelling reviews of the psychological research regarding Israeli Palestinian relationships and of stereotype and prejudice formation violence and dehumanization post traumatic stress as well as reconciliation mediation and peacemaking An appendix provides the Geneva Accord model of an Israeli Palestinian Peace agreement

Occupied Lives Nina

Gren, 2015-11-20 Intense media coverage of the Israeli Palestinian conflict does not necessarily enhance one's knowledge or understanding of the Palestinians on the contrary they are more often than not reduced to either victims or perpetrators Similarly while many academic studies devote considerable effort to analyzing the political situation in the occupied territories there have been few sophisticated case studies of Palestinian refugees living under Israeli rule An ethnographic study of Palestinian refugees in Dheisheh refugee camp just south of Bethlehem Occupied Lives looks closely at the attempts of the camp inhabitants to survive and bounce back from the profound effects of political violence and Israeli military occupation on their daily lives Based on the author's extensive fieldwork conducted inside the camp including a year during 2003-2004 when she lived in Dheisheh this study examines the daily efforts of camp inhabitants to secure survival and meaning during the period of the al Aqsa Intifada It argues that the political developments and experiences of extensive violence at the time which left most refugees outside of direct activism caused many camp inhabitants to disengage from traditional forms of politics Instead they became involved in alternative practices aimed at maintaining their sense of social worth and integrity by focusing on processes to establish a normal order social continuity and morality Nina Gren explores these processes and the ambiguities and dilemmas that necessarily arose from them and the ways in which the political and the existential are often intertwined in Dheisheh Combining theoretical readings with field based case study this book will be invaluable to scholars and students of social anthropology sociology international relations refugee studies religious studies and Middle East studies as well as to anyone with an interest in the Israeli Palestinian issue
