Psychiatric Nursing Skills Graham Dexter, Michael Wash, 2013-12-01 In this book we have attempted to identify skills which are needed by the psychiatric nurse and in doing so to identify a body of knowledge unique to the professional psychiatric nurse The book has been written to demonstrate the basis of a skills approach for both the experienced and the inexperienced nurse to build upon for we believe that psychiatric nurses due to both their training and their particular mixture of interests are well equipped to be in the forefront of psychiatry as a developing art and science We hope that this book in some small way helps this development Some of the more recent advances in psychiatric nursing have been reinforced by the publication of a training syllabus for mental nurses English and Welsh National Boards 1982 This document highlights the need for a change from a medical model to a social model and from a task oriented learning experience to a

skills approach We have attempted to reflect this change in emphasis by including such aspects as personal development and self aware ness human sexuality the nursing process and counselling skills

National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.),1991 Practical Approaches to Alcoholism Psychotherapy Sheldon Zimberg,2013-06-29 Sodelal attitudes toward alcoholism are characterized by several types of denial with disastrous personal and sodal consequences Refusal to admit the extent of alcoholism as a major national health problem leads to a public policy which allocates relatively few resources to research prevention treatment or rehabilitation On an individual basis the combination of sodally approved drinking and the stigma assigned to the chronic alcoholic results in individuals blinding themselves to the existence of the problem in family friend and self until it has reached such an advanced or obvious degree that denial is no longer possible There is the third kind of denial exemplified by therapeutic despair which proclaims that gaps in knowledge of the cause of alcoholism are so great and failures to treat alcoholics successfully so dramatic that there is no assurance that efforts will lead to a positive outcome This denial is perhaps the most troublesome because it reflects an attitude of therapeutic helplessness It discourages families from seeking help and it reinforces the tendency of physicians and other human services workers to overlook the presence of alcoholism as they treat its physical social and economic consequences Denial frequently surrounds those who treat alcoholics with an aura of hopelessness which itself is a negative therapeutic force
