Redwood Railways A History Of The Northw:

Logging Railroads of Humboldt and Mendocino Counties Katy M. Tahja, 2013 Locomotive steam whistles echo no more in the forests of the north California coast A century ago Humboldt and Mendocino Counties had more than 40 railroads bringing logs out of the forest to mills at the water s edge Only one single railroad ever connected to the outside world and it too is gone One railroad survives as the Skunk Train in Mendocino County and it carries tourists today instead of lumber Redwood and tan oak bark were the two products moved by rail and very little else was hauled other than lumberjacks and an occasional picnic excursion for loggers families Economic depressions and the advent of trucking saw railroads vanish like a puff of steam from the landscape Collections of the Minnesota Historical Society Minnesota Historical

O'Hara,2024-04-29 The battle to preserve a natural wonder Towering and majestic the redwood forests of California s North Coast once drew not visitors but fortune seeking timber companies By 1917 the region had been logged for nearly 70 years and concerns arose that the rapidly disappearing redwoods could be lost Damage wrought by logging and road construction caught the attention of Madison Grant John Campbell Merriam and Henry Fairfield Osborn and the Save the Redwoods League was born Together with the State of California and the U S Federal Government the League s efforts led to the protection of the remaining old growth redwoods creating state and national parks to preserve them for future generations Author Susan J P O Hara recounts the story of the fight to save the world s tallest trees The Tootin' Louie Donovan L. King examines how investors and a growing U S economy drove the timber industry to cut down all but 4 percent of the original two million acre redwood ecosystem King first examined redwood logging in the 1980s as an award winning reporter What he found in the woods convinced him to leap the line of neutrality and become an activist dedicated to saving the very last ancient redwood groves remaining in private hands The land grab began in 1849 when a green gold rush of migrants came to exploit the legendary redwoods that grew along the Russian River Several generations later in 1987 Greg King discovered and named Headwaters Forest at 3 000 acres the largest ancient redwood habitat remaining outside of parks and he led the movement to save this grove After a decade of one of the longest most dramatic and violent environmental campaigns in US history in 1999 the state and federal governments protected Headwaters Forest The Ghost Forest explores a central question an overhanging mystery What was it like this botanical Elysium that grew only along the Northern California coast a forest so spectacular but also uniquely valuable as a cornerstone of American economic growth that in the end it would inspire life and death struggles Few but loggers and surveyors ever saw such magnificent trees ancient sentinels that like ghosts have informed King s understanding of the world On a lifelong journey King finds himself through the generations and through the trees A Next Big Idea Club Must Read Title A History of the Origin of the Place Names Connected with the Chicago & North Western and Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha Railways
