Ebenezer Howard Frances Knight, 2023 Ebenezer Howard 1850 1928 is famous worldwide for founding the Garden City movement and interest in him remains strong This is the first full scale biography to be published since the 1980s It explains the remarkable sequence of events that led from the publication of his ideas to the foundation of Letchworth as the world's First Garden City just five years later and it explores other neglected aspects of Howard's life particularly his religious views Shaped in the world of London Congregationalism he became a keen seeker after unity and peace He grafted new religious ideas particularly from Spiritualism and later from Theosophy into his biblically informed Protestant faith Prone to spiritual epiphanies he believed that he had been raised up to preach the gospel of the garden city and to tackle the housing crisis by beginning to build the New Jerusalem in the Hertfordshire countryside Although he sometimes appeared naïve he was astute and highly skilled at combining different and sometimes conflicting ideas in a way that built consensus and gained support from people across the social and political spectrum Howard wanted his garden cities to be places of spiritual exploration and as this book shows early Letchworth certainly lived up to those expectations

Storied Ground Paul Readman, 2018-02-22 People have always attached meaning to the landscape that surrounds them In Storied Ground Paul Readman uncovers why landscape matters so much to the English people exploring its particular importance in shaping English national identity amid the transformations of modernity The book takes us from the fells of the Lake District to the uplands of Northumberland from the streetscapes of industrial Manchester to the heart of London This panoramic journey reveals the significance not only of the physical characteristics of landscapes but also of the sense of the past collective memories and cultural traditions that give these places their meaning Between the late eighteenth and early twentieth centuries Englishness extended far beyond the pastoral idyll of chocolate box thatched cottages waving fields of corn and quaint country churches It was found in diverse locations urban as well as rural north as well as south and it took strikingly diverse forms Live, Work and Play Mark Clapson,2020-07-20 Books about history using real life memories recorded specifically for the purpose are rare Live Work Play is just such a book Created from the hundreds of reminiscences of the residents of the town gathered by the WGC Heritage Trust and put into historical context by Prof Mark Clapson one of the UK's leading social historians the book offers a unique insight into the creation of the UK's second garden city Timed to appear at the start of 2020 when Welwyn Garden City achieves its 100th year the history of Sir Ebenezer Howard's final masterpiece with all its imperfections is laid out for all to read Now thriving and at ease with itself WGC is an example of how to create homes for its community Created as a Garden City in 1920 developed as a New Town from 1948 the lessons it offers are invaluable to both developers and governments alike

Regenerating England ,2016-08-29 In the inter war years there was much debate in Britain as to whether the best path to post World War I regeneration would be found in the promises of science and technology in continued and increased efficiency in specialization and professionalization or whether the future of the nation depended on a rediscovery of older and more authentic ways of doing things on a defiant anti modernism This debate on Britain's future was often conducted in terms of Englishness and the rebirth of a lost more spiritual village England However Englishness also entered inter war social thinking through eclectic assimilations of diverse traditions Prominent themes in the discourses on Britain's post war regeneration include national character citizenship fitness education utopia community and so on The chapters in the present volume address these themes and break new ground by examining debates well known in political and literary history through their relations to science medicine architecture and ideas of social and political health The Modernist Novel and the Decline of Empire John Marx,2005-12-08 In the early twentieth century subjects of the British Empire ceased to rely on a model of centre and periphery in imagining their world and came instead to view it as an interconnected network of cosmopolitan people and places English language and literature were promoted as essential components of a commercial cultural and linguistic network that spanned the globe John Marx argues that the early twentieth century was a key moment in the emergence of modern globalization rather than simply a period of British imperial decline Modernist fiction was actively engaged in this transformation of society on an international scale The very stylistic abstraction that seemed to remove modernism from social reality in fact internationalized the English language Rather than mapping the decline of Empire modernist novelists such as Conrad and Woolf celebrated the shared culture of the English language as more important than the waning imperial structures of Britain Love and Eugenics in the Late Nineteenth Century

Angelique Richardson,2003 The idea of eugenics human selective breeding originated in Victorian Britain in response to the urban poor Darwin's evolutionary theory had laid the foundations for eugenics replacing paradise with primordial slime Man had not fallen from Grace but risen from the swamps And as architect of his own destiny he might rise still further Eugenics was developed by Darwin s cousin Francis Galton in the 1860s Embracing the idea of evolution eugenicists argued that through the judicious control of human reproduction and the numerical increase of the middle class Britain s supremacy in the world could be maintained Born and bred among the competitive Victorian middle class eugenics was a biologicistic discourse on class Aiming at racial improvement by altering the balance of class in society it was Galton argued practical Darwinism Eugenics found its most sustained expression in fiction and the periodical press and was central to late nineteenth century ideas on social progress forming part of the debate between hereditarians and environmentalists that peaked in the closing years of the century Even Gladstone had his vital statistics measured in Galton s eugenic laboratory Among the champions of eugenics were social purity feminists and New Women writers such as George Egerton Ellice Hopkins and Sarah Grand who argued that women were naturally biologically moral and that through rational reproduction middle class women could regenerate the British imperial race The New Woman has been the subject of numerous recent critical works However the oppressive ideas that coexisted with the emancipatory theories of some New Women ideas that were supremely class conscious remain largely unexamined as the focus remains on her more progressive aspects Love and Eugenics in the Late Nineteenth Century recontextualizes New Woman writers demonstrating that they were as concerned with the questions of poverty sickness and health as they were with the changing role of women the issue for which they are currently generally known and celebrated Focusing on fiction and the press and drawing on the papers and published work of Galton and other eugenicists Angelique Richardson reveals the cultural pervasiveness of eugenics and explores for the first time the intimate relations between early feminism and eugenics and making a radical contribution to nineteenth century studies

Fears and Fantasies Kate Murphy,2010 Fears and Fantasies Modernity Gender and the Rural Urban Divide explores the ways in which fantasies about returning to or revitalising rural life helped to define Western modernity in the early twentieth century Scholarship addressing responses to modernity has focused on urban space and fears about the effects of city life few studies have considered the rural to be as critical as the urban in understanding modernity This book argues that the rural is just as significant a reference point as the urban in discourses about modernity Using a rich Australian case study to illuminate broader international themes it focuses on the role of gender in ideas about the rural urban divide showing how the country was held up against the unnatural city as a space in which men were more masculine and women more feminine Fears and Fantasies is an innovative and important contribution to scholarship in the fields of history and gender studies
