

On rights-based approaches to justice for animals

Abstract. In the following paper I critically review and compare Robert Garner's recent rights-based approach to justice for animals with competing accounts by Martha Nussbaum focused on individual capabilities and species norms, and by Sue Donaldson and Will Kymlicka focused on citizenship theory. What does it mean to say that the status and treatment of animals is an issue of justice and why must this feature in a theory of (global) justice that is meant to contribute to the solution of urgent practical problems? I take the question of whether animals place significant moral demands on us as settled in the affirmative. I argue that animal rights are a matter of justice that must be covered by any substantive theory of global justice. In light of my critical survey of these innovative new political theories of animal rights I ask how animals might be included in global justice theory and how their inclusion might significantly enrich and inform global politics.
