Abraham's reputation as an authority on Russian music has tended to obscure his deep interest in the music of Poland and Czechoslovakia and of the nineteenth century generally From a lifetime's devoted scholarship in these fields Abraham's selected his best work to make up this volume first published in 1968 one of exceptional breadth and fascination The subjects range from the relationship of Slavonic music to the western world to detailed essays on figures such as Chopin Dvorak Rubinstein and Mussorgsky A study of realism in Janacek's operas contains a particularly fine analysis of From a House of the Dead and there is an account of the fantastic erotic diary for piano in which Zdenek Fibich one of the finest nineteenth century Czech symphonists recorded the secrets of his love affair with former student and librettist Anezka Schulzová Gerald Abraham 1904-1988 was a distinguished musicologist among his official posts those of Professor of Music at the University of Liverpool and Assistant Controller of Music at the BBC Aleksandr Porfir'evich Borodin N.A. Figurovskii, Yu.I.

Solov'ev, 2012-12-06 A full century has passed since the sudden and tragically premature demise of Aleksandr Porfir'evich Borodin in 1887 at the age of 53 when he was following with phenomenal success the disparate careers of musician composer organic chemist and pioneer in women's medical education As a unique figure among the remarkable group of geniuses who suddenly appeared in Russia in the middle of the last century and explosively propelled that country into the mainstream of world culture in the arts humanities and sciences it might have been expected that Borodin was the object of much research There is no doubt that the Russian contribution to the amazing development of structural chemistry in the last century has tended to be underplayed while that in the rest of Europe has received much more attention One wonders in particular whether Borodin's name might not have appeared in the chemical pantheon as have those of Mendeleev Markovnikov Menshutkin and many other Russians if the aldol condensation which he was the first to discover and investigate had been named the Borodin condensation Straightening out the record is important Figurovskii and Solov'ev's biography does much in this respect Just as meritorious have been the scholarly and exhaustive efforts of Professors Charlene Steinberg and George B Kauffman who have made the Russian text accessible to the Western world in their accurate and engrossing translation The Gramophone Classical Catalogue, 1994-06 The Gramophone, 1924

Collaborative Creative Thought and Practice in Music Margaret S. Barrett, 2016-05-23 The notion of the individual creator a product in part of the Western romantic ideal is now troubled by accounts and explanations of creativity as a social construct While in collectivist cultures the assimilation but not the denial of individual authorship into the complexities of group production and benefit has been a feature the notion of the lone individual creator has been persistent Systems theories acknowledge the role of others yet at heart these are still individual views of creativity focusing on the creative individual drawing upon the work of others rather than recognizing the mutually constitutive elements of social interactions across time and space Focusing on the domain of music the approach taken in this book falls into three sections investigations of the people processes products and places of collaborative creativity in compositional thought and practice explorations of the ways in which creative collaboration provides a means of crossing boundaries between disciplines such as music performance and musicology and studies of the emergence of creative thought and practice in educational contexts including that of the composer and the classroom The volume concludes with an extended chapter that reflects on the ways in which the studies reported advance understandings of creative thought and practice The book provides new perspectives to our understandings of the role of collaborative thought and processes in creative work across the domain of music including composition musicology performance music education and music psychology 9 Sonatas for the Piano Domenico Scarlatti, 1922
