Bunni, 2003-09-02 Those involved in construction have to cope with so much learning in their own discipline that they shun further involvement in subjects such as insurance and law, which in themselves are so deeply and intensely complex. However, insurance and law are interwoven in the basic procedures used in the construction industry for undertaking work, be they design, construction, supervision, or operation, or any combination of them. This thoroughly revised edition of Nael Bunni's successful book, formerly called Insurance in Construction, provides information on risk, construction law, and construction insurance for those involved with all aspects of construction. The chapters on risk have been expanded to include recent developments in the area and provide further examples of events which could occur on what can be viewed as the most risky human work activity, namely, construction. New chapters are also added to deal with the insurance clauses of the many new standard forms of contract published in recent years, including FIDIC's new suite of contracts published in September 1999, ICE's seventh edition of the civil engineering standard form of contract, and ICE's second edition of the design-build form. Risk and Insurance in Construction Nael G. Bunni, Lydia B. Bunni, 2022-02-16 The new 3rd edition of Nael Bunni's Risk and Insurance in Construction now co-authored with Lydia Bunni explains the need for insurance in construction and engineering projects and why it must be incorporated into the Conditions of Contract for such projects. It is unique in bringing together the background of the two topics of risk and construction insurance, explaining the flow and the interaction between them, and then dealing with how they have been used to formulate the 2017 FIDIC Suite of Contracts and the 2021 Green Book. This edition has been fully updated, and new chapters deal with the latest definitions of risk outlined in ISO 31000:2009 and specifically explain the principles embodied in the new Clauses 17, 18, and 19 of the Major Suite of the FIDIC forms of contract and how they should be used. An important chapter, Chapter 5, is included discussing the logical transition from decision making to risk identification to responsibility for those allocated with particular risks to the potential liability that results This includes discussing particular liabilities that may arise for parties typically involved in construction and engineering projects including developers owners contractors and designers This part of the book links insurance to the law and explains the interaction between the two topics The correlation between liability and the need for indemnity which can only be provided properly through insurance is highlighted The book is essential reading for practitioners from both the engineering profession and the insurance industry in all types of projects Engineers who are required to use one of the Major Forms of the FIDIC Suite of Contracts whether they are designers or contractors and those involved in the insurance sector whether brokers claim consultants or insurance company personnel will find this book to be an indispensable reference

Construction Disputes Robert F. Cushman, John D. Carter, Douglas F. Coppi, Paul J. Gorman, 2001-01-01 In compiling the third and entirely revised edition of Construction Disputes Representing the Contractor the editors have sought out as specialists in their field contributing authors who are not only experienced in resolving construction disputes but also known and respected for their expertise in specific critical areas commonly encountered in construction litigation Although intended primarily to assist attorneys this book also provides a useful desk reference for anyone whose activities touch on long term contract matters and gives individual contractors a better understanding of how their actions may affect this increasingly important part of operations

The Belt and Road Initiative Permanent Forum of China Construction Law, 2019-08-22 The Belt and Road initiative designed to enhance trade

flows and spur long term regional economic growth through infrastructure projects has expanded China's overseas construction market. This book, written by prominent adjudicators, lawyers, scholars, entrepreneurs, and consultants with extensive first-hand experience in global construction matters, will assist Chinese contractors in identifying, managing, and mitigating the inherent risks involved, including those arising from the political, social, economic, and legal contexts of the foreign jurisdiction. Drawing on real-life experiences of project managers, lawyers, arbitrators, and others, and including summaries of both successful and unsuccessful cases, the book comprehensively covers the variety of risks facing Chinese contractors of international engineering projects and provides useful advice on how to address them. The issues and topics covered in this book are: understanding the political, social, and market environment of the host country; cost and scheduling impacts of host country regulation; dispute resolution mechanisms; site security, health, and medical environment; availability of local goods and materials; appointment of local subcontractors; public relations and social responsibility; and insurance. Questionnaires and interviews covering a wide variety of Chinese overseas construction projects provide expert perspectives on risk analysis and management, best practices, precautions, issues to be adjudicated in arbitrations, and much more. Addressing all the practical difficulties and problems encountered before and during an overseas construction project, the book will help in-house counsel for Chinese enterprises and those who interact with them improve management, reduce risks, and protect rights and interests. It will also serve as a general guide for international engineering contractors, given that the risks Chinese enterprises face in their overseas operations are shared by their international counterparts. Others welcoming this book include international lawyers, scholars, and researchers specializing in construction law, arbitrators, arbitral institutions, and international project owners.
