Communication strategies for product recalls in the healthcare business Thomas Osche, 2010-03-01 Master's Thesis from the year 2007 in the subject Communications Public Relations Advertising Marketing Social Media grade 1.3

Anglia Ruskin University Ashcroft International Business School language English abstract After a series of cardiac implantable device recalls hit the industry in the year 2005 the question of a favourable corporate communication strategy about inevitable product recalls was raised Knowing that it is impossible to produce 100% failure free products I was personally interested in seeing how such recalls occurred and how successful they were handled by the different companies from a communication perspective This thesis analyses such device recalls since the year 2000 and attempts to identify a favourable communication strategy for the companies involved in such recalls in the future Qualitative analysis was performed on various secondary data sources to find positive and negative aspects of different communication strategies for the affected companies Four companies could be analysed where three provided significant results which were used for final recommendations Those recommendations are provided to support active corporate communication The basis of the recommended communication strategy is as follows Provide disclosure about probabilities of malfunctions while supportive to the most powerful stakeholders which are the physicians and the regulatory authorities When one company faces a recall it is favourable to take accountability and give advice to physicians about how to respond to their patients because they are facing the problem of having all the information at hand without an adequate guideline which summarises a clinical decision on how to act and how to weight risks of keeping the existing device versus the risks of device change out procedures

Pritchard, Cylor Spaulding, 2018-08-02 Cases in Public Relations Strategy by Burton St John III Diana K Martinelli Robert S Pritchard and Cylor Spaulding draws on original real world case studies to provide you with a strategic approach to meeting the needs of a client before during and beyond a campaign Using the RACE Research Action Planning Communication and Evaluation model you will explore successful contemporary campaigns and evaluate best practices in all major areas of public relations activity This practical client oriented text shows you how to systematically evaluate and adapt to the needs of a particular client whether big or small global or local for profit or nonprofit in order to launch the most effective campaign Each case includes a brief introduction focused on fundamentals and core competencies and all cases have been carefully selected to present a wide range of client types In addition to the lessons from professionals in the case studies a section on PR consulting and an appendix on advancing your PR career give you the knowledge and skills you need for success in the field      Emergencies and Public Health Crisis Management- Current Perspectives on Risks and Multiagency Collaboration Amir Khorram-Manesh, Frederick M Burkle, 2020-12-11 The successful management of emergencies and public health crises depends on adequate measures being implemented at all levels of the emergency chain of action from policy makers to the general population It starts with appropriate risk assessment prevention and mitigation and continues to prehospital and hospital care recovery and evaluation All levels of action require well thought out emergency management plans and routines based on established command and control identified safety issues functional communication well documented triage and treatment policies and available logistics All these characteristics are capabilities that should be developed and trained particularly when diverse agencies are involved In addition to institutional responses a robust community based disaster response system can effectively mitigate and respond to all emergencies A well balanced response is largely dependent on local resources and regional responding agencies that all too often train and operate within silos with an absence of interagency cooperation The importance of this book issue is its commitment to all parts of emergency and public health crisis management from a multiagency perspective It aims to discuss lessons learned and emerging risks introduce new ideas about flexible surge capacity and show the way it can practice multiagency collaboration
