Making England Landscape Of Hertfordshire:

Archaeology in Hertfordshire Kris Lockyear, 2015-10-01 Celebrating the rich heritage of archaeology and of archaeological research in Hertfordshire the 15 papers collected in this work focus on various aspects of the region including the Neolithic to the post Medieval periods and include a report on the important excavations at the formative henge at Norton Several chapters focus new attention on the Iron Age and Roman periods both from a landscape perspective and through detailed studies of artefacts while a discussion of the rare early Saxon material recently excavated at Watton at Stone makes a vital contribution to the existing corpus of knowledge about this little understood period All of the papers in the volume focus on the local scene with an understanding of wider issues in each period and as a result the papers are of importance beyond the boundaries of the county and will be of interest to scholars with wide ranging interests

Hertfordshire Anne Rowe, Tom Williamson, 2013 Dividing the county of Hertfordshire into four broad regions the champion countryside in the north the Chiltern dip slope to the west the fertile boulder clays of the east and the unwelcoming London Clay in the south this volume explains how in the course of the middle ages natural characteristics influenced the development of land use and settlement to create a range of distinctive landscapes The great diversity of Hertfordshire s landscapes makes it a particularly rewarding area of study Variations in farming economies in patterns of trade and communication as well as in the extent of London s influence have all played a part during the course of the postmedieval centuries and Hertfordshire s continuing evolution is followed into the 21st century Lavishly illustrated with maps and photographs this authoritative work is invaluable reading for all those with an interest in the history archaeology and natural transformation of this fascinating county

Environment, Society and Landscape in Early Medieval England Tom Williamson, 2015 The origins of England s regional cultures are here shown to be strongly influenced by the natural environment and geographical features The Anglo Saxon period was crucial in the development of England s character its language and much of its landscape and culture were forged in the period between the fifth and the eleventh centuries Historians and archaeologists have long been fascinated by its regional variations by the way in which different parts of the country displayed marked differences in social structures settlement patterns and field systems In this controversial and wide ranging study the author argues that such differences were largely a consequence of environmental factors of the influence of climate soils and hydrology and of the patterns of contact and communication engendered by natural topography He also suggests that such environmental influences have been neglected over recent decades by generations of scholars who are embedded in an urban culture and largely divorced from the natural world and that an appreciation of the fundamental role of physical geography in shaping human affairs can throw much new light on a number of important debates about early medieval society The book will be essential reading for all those interested in the character of the Anglo Saxon and Scandinavian settlements in early medieval social and territorial organization and in the origins of the

England's medieval landscapes Tom Williamson is Professor of Landscape History University of East Anglia he has written widely on landscape archaeology agricultural history and the history of landscape design British and Irish Archaeology, 1994 Dury and Andrews' Map of Hertfordshire Andrew Macnair, Anne Rowe, Tom Williamson, 2015-11-30 This book is about the map of an English county Hertfordshire which was published in 1766 by two London mapmakers Andrew Dury and John Andrews For well over two centuries from the time of Elizabeth I to the late 18th century the county was the basic unit for mapping in Britain and the period witnessed several episodes of comprehensive map making The map which forms the subject of this book followed on from a large number of previous maps of the county but was greatly superior to them in terms of quality and detail It was published in a variety of forms in nine sheets with an additional index map over a period of 60 years No other maps of Hertfordshire were produced during the rest of the century but the Board of Ordnance later the Ordnance Survey established in the 1790s began to survey the Hertfordshire area in 1799 publishing the first maps covering the county between 1805 and 1834 The OS came to dominate map making in Britain but of all the maps of Hertfordshire that produced by Dury and Andrews was the first to be surveyed at a sufficiently large scale to really allow those dwelling in the county to visualize their own parish local topography and even their own house and its place in the wider landscape The first section examines the context of the map's production and its place in cartographic history and describes the creation of a new digital version of the map which can be accessed online The second part describes various ways in which this electronic version can be interrogated in order to throw important new light on Hertfordshire's landscape and society both in the middle decades of the eighteenth century when it was produced and in more remote periods The attached DVD contains over a dozen maps which have been derived from the digital version and which illustrate many of the issues discussed in the text as well as related material which should likewise be useful to students of landscape history historical geography and local history Hertfordshire Garden History Volume 2 Deborah Spring, 2012 This second volume of Hertfordshire garden history considers how Hertfordshire's historic parks and gardens have been influenced by and reflect the social and economic history of their time Beginning with the hunting parks and Renaissance gardens of the Bacons Cecils and Capels in the 16th and 17th centuries and their gradual replacement by designed landscape this book shows how in Hertfordshire individuals have long sought greater space and comfort within easy reach of the capital London With examples from both well known and less visible or vanished gardens from the past 500 years it is sure to delight garden enthusiasts A Hertfordshire Domesne of Westminster Abbey Derek Vincent Stern, 2000 This pioneering contribution to the economic history of medieval England focuses on the Hertfordshire demesne farm of Kinsbourne later Herpendenbury and questions whether the farm's periods of economic success and failure were due to human factors or to the forces of nature Originally written as a doctoral thesis in 1978 the history has now been edited and published as a memorial to its author who died in 1993 The detailed study is based on the meticulous analysis of numerous primary sources which the author concludes suggest that the weather had little impact on the efficiency or otherwise of the manor's management accountancy or exploitation of the market A lengthy introduction places the work within the context of meteorological debate and regional history Hertfordshire in History Doris Jones-Baker,2004 This collection of essays offers a historical glimpse into the lives and happenings in Hertfordshire from the 13th century to the present Topics range from graffiti evidence of medieval music King James's connections with Hertfordshire settlements in the Connecticut Valley art traditions in the 19th century and the history of Christ's Hospital This compilation was designed to honor Lionel Munby one of Hertfordshire's leading 20th century historians Hertfordshire Garden History Anne Rowe,2007 This volume contains original research into aspects of garden history in Hertfordshire An Environmental History of Wildlife in England 1650 - 1950 Tom Williamson,2013-12-05 Choice Outstanding Academic Title 2014 While few detailed surveys of fauna or flora exist in England from the period before the nineteenth century it is possible to combine the evidence of historical sources ranging from game books diaries churchwardens accounts and even folk songs and our wider knowledge of past land use and landscape with contemporary analyses made by modern natural scientists in order to model the situation at various times and places in the more remote past This timely volume encompasses both rural and urban environments from 1650 to the mid twentieth century drawing on a wide variety of social historical and ecological sources It examines the impact of social and economic organisation on the English landscape biodiversity the agricultural revolution landed estates the coming of large scale industry and the growth of towns and suburbs It also develops an original perspective on the complexity and ambiguity of man animal relationships in this post medieval period
