Heidegger, Politics and Climate Change Ruth Irwin, 2011-10-27 The scale of some environmental problems such as climate change and human overpopulation exceed any one nation state and require either co-ordinated governance or a shift in the culture of modernity Heidegger Politics and Climate Change examines this crisis alongside Heidegger's ideas about technology and modernity Heidegger suggests that refocusing on the primary questions that make it meaningful to be human the question of Being could create the means for alternative discourses that both challenge and sidestep the attempt for total surveillance and total control He advocates recognising the problematic relationship humanity has with the environment and reinventing new trajectories of understanding ourselves and our planet This book aims to properly integrate environment into philosophy and political theory offering a constructive critique of modernity with some helpful suggestions for establishing a readiness for blue sky scenarios for the future The book lays out the practical implications of Heidegger's ideas and engages with philosophy of technology considering the constraints and the potentials of technology on culture and environment

Urban China The World Bank; Development Research Center of the State Council, 2014-07-29 In the last 30 years China's record economic growth lifted half a billion people out of poverty with rapid urbanization providing abundant labor cheap land and good infrastructure While China has avoided some of the common ills of urbanization strains are showing as inefficient land development leads to urban sprawl and ghost towns pollution threatens people's health and farmland and water resources are becoming scarce With China's urban population projected to rise to about one billion or close to 70 percent of the country's population by 2030 China's leaders are seeking a more coordinated urbanization process Urban China is a joint research report by a team from the World Bank and the Development Research Center of China's State Council which was established to address the challenges and opportunities of urbanization in China and to help China forge a new model of urbanization The report takes as its point of departure the conviction that China's urbanization can become more efficient inclusive and sustainable However it stresses that achieving this vision will require strong support from both government and the markets for policy reforms in a number of areas The report proposes six main areas for reform first amending land management institutions to foster more efficient land use denser cities modernized agriculture and more equitable wealth distribution second adjusting the hukou household registration system to increase labor mobility and provide urban migrant workers equal access to a common standard of public services third placing urban finances on a more sustainable footing while fostering financial discipline among local governments fourth improving urban planning to enhance connectivity and encourage scale and agglomeration economies fifth reducing environmental pressures through more efficient resource management and sixth improving governance at the local level

Developing a Normative Framework for the Protection of Internally Displaced Persons Simon Bagshaw, 2021-10-01 The author presents a systematic review of the role of treaties in international law and seeks to demonstrate that their importance is today somewhat overstated given the extent to which States and other organizations tend to resort to more flexible means of standard setting in order to promote respect for human rights As this text demonstrates the collaboration of various governmental intergovernmental and non governmental representatives can result in an instrument which may be broader in scope and more progressive in content If reinforced by suitable implementation measures it can be even more effective than a treaty in regulating States activities Published under the Transnational Publishers imprint

The Oxford Handbook of Feminist Theology Mary McClintock Fulkerson, Sheila Briggs, 2012 This volume highlights the relevance of globalization and the insights of gender studies and religious studies for feminist theology It focuses on the changing global contexts for the field and its movement towards new models of theology distinct from the forms of traditional Christian systematic theology and of secular feminism

After the End of History Robert E. Lane, 2009-11-16 Robert E. Lane is one of the most prominent and distinguished critics of both the human impact of market economies and economic theory arguing from much research that happiness is more likely to flow from companionship enjoyment of work contribution to society and the opportunity to develop as a person than from the pursuit of wealth and the accumulation of material goods in market economies This latest work playfully personalizes the contrast through a dialogue between a humanistic social scientist Dessi and a market economist Adam It is all too rare to have the two sides talking to each other Moreover in Lane's witty and literate hands it is an open minded and balanced conversation in which neither side has all the answers His unparalleled grasp of interdisciplinary social scientific knowledge is brought to bear on the largest questions of human life What genuinely makes people happy How should human society be organized to maximize the quality of human lives David O Sears Professor of Psychology and Political Science UCLA Lane s deep knowledge of the sources of human happiness enables him to develop a powerful critique of economic theory Robert A Dahl Sterling Professor Emeritus of Political Science Yale University Robert E Lane is the Eugene Meyer Professor Emeritus of Political Science at Yale University His previous publications include The Loss of Happiness in Market Democracies 2000 and The Market Experience 1991

Aging in Israel Sara Carmel, 2017-07-12 In the twentieth century all developed nations began to undergo unprecedented demographic changes as their birth rates declined and life expectancies increased significantly an average of thirty years in less than a century These developments have caused major transformations in the composition of populations in these countries especially in terms of the proportions of the various age groups While the age groups of children and adolescents have decreased those of elderly persons aged 65 and over have increased Consistent with the situation in other developed nations the absolute number and percentage of elderly persons in the Israeli population is increasing while the percentage of younger persons is decreasing Israel however differs from other developed countries in the pace of this demographic change the composition of its population and the ways it can address needs related to aging The demographic figures in Israel indicate that not only is the proportion of elderly persons in the total population growing but that the old population itself is rapidly aging as well This volume exemplifies how social science research can promote knowledge about and understanding of needs and opportunities for adaptation and assist in evaluating the outcomes of policies and services on the personal community and national levels as well as suggest required changes The variety of topics covered in this volume on age related research policies and practice reflects a wide range of research by Israeli scholars on social aspects of aging Their research offers a glimpse into the knowledge base that has been built over the years on the aging process in Israel the population of elderly people and the national policies and network of services for the aged Other developed countries with aging populations have much to learn from the Israeli experience
