Mannerhouse A Play In A Prologue And Four Acts:

Thomas Wolfe Interviewed, 1929--1938 Aldo P. Magi, Richard Walser, 2002-03-01 In Thomas Wolfe Interviewed 1929 1938 Aldo P Magi and Richard Walser have brought together twenty five accounts of Thomas Wolfe talking to the press ranging from the first interview he gave a conversation with a student journalist for New York University's Daily News to the last an interview with the Portland Sunday Oregonian in July 1938 only a few months before his death These encounters with the working press have an appealing intimacy rarely found in biographies or scholarly studies Wolfe always happy to meet with journalists was ever ready to talk about the writing of Look Homeward Angel about Scribner's acceptance of the manuscript and about the book's popular reception As my book began to grow before me a wild sense of exultation and joyous elation seized me he told an interviewer for the Rocky Mountain News Walking along New York's Fifth Avenue with another interviewer just after Look Homeward Angel's appearance Wolfe spotted a copy prominently displayed in a bookstore window and proudly pointed it out His eyes came away from the window unwillingly the reporter noted Nor did Wolfe shy away from addressing the outrage his first novel occasioned in his hometown If they think I have intended to cast reflections on my old home and my own people they have gone far wrong he told an interviewer for the Asheville Times Wolfe talked about his southern upbringing his education his frequent trips to Europe and his life in New York He enjoyed discussing his favorite authors and books as well as what he himself planned to write in the future Wolfe had tremendous faith in America's ability to produce a great national literature Headnotes and afterwords place each interview in perspective heightening the reader's grasp of the varied situations in which Wolfe met with reporters In some instances the interviewers themselves reflect on their meetings with Wolfe For these interviews the journalists had no tape recorders and did not conduct the sort of length in depth interviews that have now become common The interviews are instead often the products of several hours of questioning put together from jotted down notes and from the reporters' memories Since most of these interviews have been buried in newspaper archives for decades even veteran Wolfe scholars will find much here that is fresh and useful Look Homeward David Herbert Donald, 2002 A portrait of an American novelist examining the forces of his life that were intertwined with his writing and the academic and literary worlds of which he was a part Sixteen Modern American Authors Jackson R. focus on lost children and children suffering loss Eckard examines how some contemporary writers provide new stories of the Civil War the role of other wars in Southern lives and the centrality of family Margaret M Bauer Rivers Chair of Southern Literature at East Carolina University First published in 1937 Thomas Wolfe's The Lost Boy gives name to the theme of lost children that has permeated much of southern literature and provides a template for telling their stories In Thomas Wolfe and Lost Children in Southern Literature which grew out of many years of teaching The Lost Boy and other works of southern literature Paula Gallant Eckard uses Wolfe's novel as a starting point to trace thematic connections among contemporary southern novels that are comparably evocative in their treatment of lostness Eckard explores six authors and their works Fred Chappell's I Am One of You Forever Mark Powell's Prodigals Kaye Gibbons's Ellen Foster Sue Monk Kidd's The Secret Life of Bees Bobbie Anne Mason's In Country Robert Olmstead's Coal Black Horse and Lee Smith's On Agate Hill Though each novel is unique and a product of its own time period all the novels explored here are cast against the backdrop of the South during eras of conflict and change Like The Lost Boy these novels reflect a sense of history a sense of loss associated with that history and an innate love of story and narrative as well as representations of work that historically have defined the lives of individuals and families throughout the South In its artistic treatment of lostness The Lost Boy creates a significant literary legacy As Eckard demonstrates that legacy continues in the form of these six contemporary authors who in writing about the South perpetuate Wolfe's efforts as they also create or find the lost child in new ways PAULA GALLANT ECKARD is an associate professor of English and the director of the American studies program at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte She is the author of Maternal Body and Voice in Toni Morrison Bobbie Ann Mason and Lee Smith
