Catalogs Library of Congress, 1976 Three Cities After Hitler Andrew Demshuk, 2021-09-21 Three Cities after Hitler compares how three prewar German cities shared decades of postwar development under three competing post Nazi regimes Frankfurt in capitalist West Germany Leipzig in communist East Germany and Wrocław formerly Breslau in communist Poland Each city was rebuilt according to two intertwined modern trends First certain local edifices were chosen to be resurrected as sacred sites to redeem the national story after Nazism Second these tokens of a reimagined past were staged against the hegemony of modernist architecture and planning which wiped out much of whatever was left of the urban landscape that had survived the war All three cities thus emerged with simplified architectural narratives whose historically layered complexities only survived in fragments where this twofold redemptive reconstruction after Nazism had proven less vigorous sometimes because local citizens took action to save and appropriate them Transcending both the Iron Curtain and freshly homogenized nation states three cities under three rival regimes shared a surprisingly common history before during and after Hitler in terms of both top down planning policies and residents spontaneous efforts to make home out of their city as its shape shifted around them Uprooted Gregor Thum, 2011-08-08 How a German city became Polish after World War II With the stroke of a pen at the Potsdam Conference following the Allied victory in 1945 Breslau the largest German city east of Berlin became the Polish city of Wrocław Its more than six hundred thousand inhabitants almost all of them ethnic Germans were expelled and replaced by Polish settlers from all parts of prewar Poland Uprooted examines the long term psychological and cultural consequences of forced migration in twentieth century Europe through the experiences of Wrocław's Polish inhabitants In this pioneering work Gregor Thum tells the story of how the city's new Polish settlers found themselves in a place that was not only unfamiliar to them but outright repellent given Wrocław's Prussian German appearance and the enormous scope of wartime destruction The immediate consequences were an unstable society an extremely high crime rate rapid dilapidation of the building stock and economic stagnation This changed only after the city's authorities and a new intellectual elite provided Wrocław with a Polish founding myth and reshaped the city's appearance to fit the postwar legend that it was an age old Polish city Thum also shows how the end of the Cold War and Poland's democratization triggered a public debate about Wrocław's amputated memory Rediscovering the German past Wrocław's

Poles reinvented their city for the second time since World War II Uprooted traces the complex historical process by which Wrocław's new inhabitants revitalized their city and made it their own Die Galerie Gerstenberger und Wilhelm Grosshennig Ulrike Saß, 2021-10-11 Die Geschichte der Galerie Gerstenberger in Chemnitz waren charakteristisch für den Handel mit Kunst auf dem auch abseits der Metropolen regen und umfangreichen Kunstmarkt des 20.
