Women and Architectural History Dana Arnold, 2024-07-01. In this book, prominent architectural historians who happen to be women reflect on their practice and the intervention this has made in the discipline. Of particular concern are the ways in which feminine subjectivities have been embodied in the discourses of architectural history. Each of the chapters examines the author's own position and the disruptive presence of women as both subject and object in the historiography of a specific field of enquiry. The aim is not to replace male lives with female lives or to write women into the masculinist narratives of architectural history. Instead, this book aims to broaden the discourses of architectural history to explore how the potentially unnatural rule of women subverts canonical norms through the empowerment of otherness rather than a process of perceived emasculation. The essays examine the historiographic and socio-cultural implications of the role of women in the narratives and writing of architectural history with particular reference to Western traditions of scholarship on the period 1600-1950. Rather than subscribing to a single position, individual voices critically engage with past and present canonical histories, disclosing assumptions, biases and absences in the architectural historiography of the West. This book is a crucial reflection upon historiographical practice, exploring potential openings that may contribute further transformation of the theory and methods of architectural history. Chapter 9 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution NonCommercial NoDerivatives CC BY-NC-ND 4.0 International license.

Ownership, Financial Accountability and the Law Paul Beckett, 2019-05-08 There is something visceral about ownership This is mine you can't have it This is mine you can share it This is ours Try to find it Contemporary literature and investigative journalism are showing that the scale of the problem of tax evasion money laundering organised crime terrorism bribery corruption and gross human rights abuses is vast Ownership specifically the quest to identify beneficial owners has been chosen by national and international regulators as the touchstone the litmus test in the fight back An owner by definition must possess something for which they are financially accountable But what is meant by ownership This book explains why ownership is pivotal to accountability and what ownership means in common law civil law and Shariah law terms It looks in detail at State regional and international transparency strategies and at an equally powerful global private counter initiative to promote beneficial ownership avoidance through the use of so called orphan structures Where there is no owner there is no accountability The distinction between privacy and legitimate confidentiality on the one hand and concealment on the other is explained with reference to commercial and trade law and practice principles of corporate governance and applicable business human rights This book introduces one further counter initiative the phenomenon of transient ownership made possible through the use of cryptocurrency and the blockchain The study concludes with a blueprint for action with recommendations addressed to states international organisations practitioners and other stakeholders
