

In embryology we also have a very interesting description of the passage of the human race through the various species of nature. When we find at certain periods the Hyperborean element. At another time we see the presence of animals more than the Aethiopian, and finally the Negro. We must infinitely recommend to all earnest students that they make a very careful study of this subject. Science shows that all life upon this planet came out of the water. The human embryo is developed in water through all the primitive stages of its growth, and so it is that the story of the evolution of all things. We did not appear upon the planet until the third race. It does not appear in the embryo until the third month.

The recapitulation of the human embryo through the lower kingdoms of nature is one of the strongest proofs of evolution. Moreover, as it grows continuously that man could not have been made originally in his adult condition. Consequently he passed through a human embryology. In fact, he is still in the embryo and will not actually be born until the human race up to he is truly human, which will not be for many thousands of years. He is just in the state of becoming man.

The nine months of the prenatal epoch have been employed in evolution for eggs. Now is called the month of man, because at the nine months that the body is in a state of preparation. The greatest number is supposed to be before, as at the present time that is how three months before he is finished. The greatest achievement of the human race will surely be more being accomplished during the prenatal epoch, until finally birth will be the climax, and all preparation and growth will take place in the embryonic race.

Man is not born all at once. We may say that he is born in stages. The consciousness starts outside of the body, following with the plastic substance up to the level of the genitality, when it takes hold of the cellular form within and begins to build a certain amount of individuality out of the materials which surround it. At the time of birth the physical body is born, and a process of assimilation sets in which never ceases but a moment until death. Man begins to live the moment he is born, and the span of life is the length of time which this requires. At the seventh year the vital body comes into action, and the greatest periods of growth commence. It is then that growth begins to experience difficulties. It is the time of being children doing and not. Children shoot up like weeds for they are literally recapitulating their plant elements, whereas before that time they were recapitulating their mineral ones. It is about the seventh year the child begins to manufacture vital material within his own body. Up to that time he has upon the frame received in the darkest glands of the stomach before birth. In other words he has been himself upon the globe he has passed away from the parent. It is about seven he starts work for himself. He is at the go every minute, and if youth could only hold up its energy and power to the old age, what a wonderful world we would live in.

Between twelve and fourteen is the temperamental stage, the four main activities the emotional body is born. It is during these adolescent years that youth lives its greatest emotion. Emotionship rules now. The consciousness is recapitulating its animal nature. It was truly to say that these are the days of puppy love. These are years often filled with great sorrows. These times are tinged between the fourteenth and twenty-five years that at any other period of life. It has been shown that the children of strongly emotional races are often brilliant and at the head of their classes until adolescence. When, however, the emotional wave becomes worse or about the 18th year these children frequently lose interest and ability in formal education. Every school teacher who has taught foreign children will remark for this condition among various nationalities. The reason is an example of the loss of several functions with the birth of the vital body, and there are many of these examples. During these years of emotional that parents must rule their children with firmness and kindness, so these same children will soon want they upon their parents and thank them for raised from.

Between eighteen and twenty-one, according to Chinese tradition, the genital body takes hold, and we say that the individual has reached the age of majority. He is then presumed to want the father's power but with a gold watch and pocket line can take the world in with his father. Now one person is a million mothers who interest one is set in the age of majority, but every mother knows the reason. The spiritual consciousness the true "I am," does not take hold of the new body until the twenty-five year. Up to that time it is called
