No a la muerte de las lenguas Claude Hagège, 2002-01 Cada ano mueren por termino medio unas veinticinco lenguas En la actualidad existen cinco mil lenguas vivas en el mundo Dentro de cien anos si nada cambia la mitad de ellas habran muerto Al final del siglo XXI podrian quedar alrededor de 2 500 aunque es posible que sean muchas menos si tenemos en cuenta que el ritmo de desaparicion puede acelerarse notablemente Sin duda alguna las lenguas como las civilizaciones son mortales y la voragine de la historia es implacable con todas ellas Sin embargo en la muerte de las lenguas hay algo insolito e incluso apasionante para quien quiera verlo las lenguas en el fondo son capaces de resucitar La vigilancia se impone pues sin ella todas se verian amenazadas Por todo ello este libro es a la vez un aviso y un intento de sentar las bases para hacer frente a esta situacion

Diccionario de las lenguas española y francesa comparadas: Diccionario francés-español Nemesio Fernández Cuesta, 1886 Las lenguas extranjeras como vehículo de comunicación intercultural Julián Jiménez Heffernan, Hans-Dieter Dräxler, 2009 Este libro propone una reflexión sobre el papel que desempeñan las lenguas extranjeras en la formación cultural de las personas atendiendo especialmente al contexto actual de España. Se trata especialmente del multilingüismo un reto determinante en el nuevo contexto europeo y un gran desafío pedagógico. El libro aborda tanto el marco histórico y cultural como la metodología educativa que mejor puede facilitar su correcta materialización poniendo especial énfasis en la enseñanza integrada de lengua y contenidos. Se atiende de manera predominante la lengua inglesa su pasado presente y futuro como lengua internacional y se discute el papel de lenguas emergentes en un plano global analizando la presencia cultural y educativa del alemán en España.

Escribir la catalanidad Stewart King, 2005 This study explores the interaction of language culture and identity in contemporary Catalonia and rejects the exclusion of Castilian as a language capable of expressing Catalan-ness. This study charting the construction of a Catalan identity from the nineteenth century cultural renaissance until the present day explores the interaction of language culture and identity in contemporary Catalonia. Drawing on postcolonial and multicultural literary theories it argues that Castilian and Catalan language narratives are expressions of the same culture. Through detailed analyses of texts by Terenci Moix, Francisco Canet, Ignasi Riera, Montserrat Roig, Juan Mars, Ramon Pallic and Manuel Vázquez Montalbán among others the author demonstrates that such writers share similar preoccupations and points of view and also engage in a complex literary and cultural dialogue that cuts across the established linguistic divisions that characterise cultural politics in Catalonia. The Catalan literary establishment's exclusion of Castilian as a language capable of expressing Catalan-ness is challenged and the author proposes redefining traditional understandings of Catalan literature to take into account texts produced by all members of Catalan society. Stewart King is a lecturer in Hispanic Studies at Monash University Australia.

Native Voices Richard A. Grounds, George E. Tinker, David Eugene Wilkins, 2003 Native peoples of North America still face an uncertain future due to their unstable political, legal and economic positions. Views of their predicament continue to be dominated by non-Indian writers. In response a dozen Native American writers here reclaim their rightful role as influential voices in debates about Native communities. These scholars examine crucial issues of politics, law and religion in the context of ongoing Native American resistance to the dominant culture. They particularly show how the writings of Vine Deloria Jr. have shaped and challenged American Indian scholarship in these areas since the 1960s. They provide key insights into Deloria's thought while introducing some critical issues confronting Native nations. Collectively these essays take up four important themes:

indigenous societies as the embodiment of cultures of resistance legal resistance to western oppression against indigenous nations contemporary Native religious practices and Native intellectual challenges to academia Essays address indigenous perspectives on topics usually treated by non Indians such as role of women in Indian society the importance of sacred sites to American Indian religious identity and relationship of native language to indigenous autonomy A closing essay by Deloria in vintage form reminds Native Americans of their responsibilities and obligations to one another and to past and future generations This book argues for renewed cultivation of a Native American Studies that is more Indian centered
