Organizing the Curriculum, 2019-02-11 Contemporary American youth live in a culture that ignores or denigrates labor unions Mainstream media cover labor issues only sparingly and unions no longer play much of a role in popular culture texts films or images In our schools labor has been limited to a footnote in textbooks instead of being treated seriously as the most effective force for championing the rights of working people the vast majority of the citizenry Teachers have been convinced that to bring up class or to teach about the labor movement may be construed as taking sides while the all pervasive presence of corporate America in our schools is rarely questioned So for all the talk of schools preparing young people for the work world we are failing to teach them even the basics of how that world is structured or how they can be empowered through collective action

Organizing the Curriculum Perspectives on Teaching the US Labor Movement is the first book length treatment of this blind spot in contemporary curriculum and pedagogy Contributors to this collection unionists activists teachers teacher educators and academics interrogate the ways in which knowledge is constructed in school discourses conceptualize pedagogical strategies and curricula that open discussions around class analysis and political economy via studies of the labor movement and put forward an activist vision of education that truly engages young people beyond the classroom walls SRA Open Court Reading WrightGroup/McGraw-Hill,2001-07

Preparing Teachers for a Changing World Linda Darling-Hammond,John Bransford,2007-08-17 Based on rapid advances in what is known about how people learn and how to teach effectively this important book examines the core concepts and central pedagogies that should be at the heart of any teacher education program Stemming from the results of a commission sponsored by the National Academy of Education Preparing Teachers for a Changing World recommends the creation of an informed teacher education curriculum with the common elements that represent state of the art standards for the profession Written for teacher educators in both traditional and alternative programs university and school system leaders teachers staff development professionals researchers and educational policymakers the book addresses the key foundational knowledge for teaching and discusses how to implement that knowledge within the classroom Preparing Teachers for a Changing World recommends that in addition to strong subject matter knowledge all new teachers have a basic understanding of how people learn and develop as well as how children acquire and use language which is the currency of education In addition the book suggests that teaching professionals must be able to apply that knowledge in developing curriculum that attends to students needs the demands of the content and the social purposes of education in teaching specific subject matter to diverse students in managing the classroom assessing student performance and using technology in the classroom Teaching to Change the World Jeannie Oakes,Martin Lipton,Lauren Anderson,Jamy Stillman,2015-11-17 This is an up to the moment engaging multicultural introduction to education and teaching and the challenges and opportunities they present Together the four authors bring a rich blend of theory and practical application to this groundbreaking text Jeannie Oakes is a leading education researcher and former director of the UCLA teacher education program Martin Lipton is an education writer and consultant and has taught in public schools for 31 years Lauren Anderson and Jamy Stillman are former public school teachers now working as teacher educators This unique comprehensive foundational text considers the values and politics that pervade the U S education system explains the roots of conventional thinking about schooling and teaching asks critical questions about how issues of power and privilege have shaped and continue to shape educational opportunity and presents powerful examples of real teachers working for equity and justice Taking the position that a hopeful democratic future depends on ensuring that all students learn the text pays particular attention to inequalities associated with race social class language gender and other social categories and explores teachers role in addressing them The text provides a research based and practical treatment of essential topics and it situates those topics in relation to democratic values issues of diversity and cognitive sociocultural and constructivist perspectives on learning The text shows how knowledge of education foundations and history can help teachers understand the organization of today s schools the content of contemporary curriculum and the methods of modern teaching It likewise shows how teachers can use such knowledge when thinking about and responding to headline issues like charter schools vouchers standards testing and bilingual education to name just a few Central to this text is a belief that schools can and must be places of extraordinary educational quality and institutions in the service of social justice Thus the authors address head on tensions between principles of democratic schooling and competition for always scarce high quality opportunities Woven through the text are the voices of a diverse group of teachers who share their analyses and personal anecdotes concerning what teaching to change the world means and involves Click Here for Book Website Pedagogical Features Digging Deeper sections referenced at the end of each chapter and featured online include supplementary readings and resources from scholars and practitioners who are addressing issues raised in the text Instructor s Manual offers insights about how to teach course content in ways that are consistent with cognitive and sociocultural learning theories culturally diverse pedagogy and authentic assessment New to this Edition Choices and Challenges Priscilla Wohlstetter,Joanna Smith,Caitlin C. Farrell,2013-03-01 As charter schools enter their third decade research in this key sector remains overwhelmingly contradictory and confused Many studies are narrowly focused some do not meet the standards for high quality academic research In this definitive work Wohlstetter and her colleagues isolate and distill the high quality research on charter schools to identify the contextual and operational factors that influence these schools performances The authors examine the track record of the charter sector in light of the wide range of goals set for these schools in state authorizing legislation at the classroom level the level of the school community and system wide In particular they show how the evolution of the charter movement has shaped research questions and findings By highlighting what we know about the conditions for success in charter schools the authors make a significant contribution to current debates in policy and practice both within the charter sector and in the larger landscape of public education Perspectives on Rescuing Urban Literacy Education Robert B. Cooter,2003-12-08 An exploration of the variables that contribute to the improvement of literacy instruction in large urban school districts The text grew out of The Dallas Reading Plan a five year initiative between area business and corporate interests philanthropy and the Dallas Independent School District Why Kids Can't Read

Patrick R. Riccards, Phyllis Blaunstein, Reid Lyon, 2014-12-18 Nearly forty percent of all fourth graders in this country cannot read at grade level and this number rises to sixty percent for children coming from poor families This gap in learning increases as students go through grade school and is a primary reason for school failure Ironically this problem comes even after comprehensive research demonstrates that nearly all children can learn to read if taught using proven effective instruction Here the authors describe the principles of this research in language that non educators can understand and educators can use It discusses how to recognize whether the research on reading is being used appropriately and if not how to make that happen Through the eyes of parents and educators who have succeeded in their own struggles to change the educational system the book provides the reader with the tools and knowledge for transforming the way reading is taught in their children s classrooms This book takes the reader step by step through an understanding of the research on reading and ways in which a single determined person can make a difference in the learning ability of every student in our nation s schools Part One is a series of chapters written by individuals who discuss what they experienced during these battles and what made them successful Part Two is written by a series of experts who describe how they have overcome the challenges involved in creating widespread change in school systems This second edition also includes information on Common Core State Standards increased testing and accountability efforts and related policy issues that directly impact how children learn to read The appendix is filled with resources people places sample tools a glossary and bibliography to help the reader Some key features of this book include Easy to understand descriptions of research First person stories of how they have helped teach their kids to read Clear understanding of scientifically based reading and how it can be applied to the classroom Summary of reading related Common Core State Standards Sample tools for parent advocates Resource lists of government officials organizations that can help with reading efforts
