Merolla,Elizabeth J. Zechmeister,2009-10-15 How do threats of terrorism affect the opinions of citizens Speculation abounds but until now no one had marshaled hard evidence to explain the complexities of this relationship Drawing on data from surveys and original experiments they conducted in the United States and Mexico Jennifer Merolla and Elizabeth Zechmeister demonstrate how our strategies for coping with terrorist threats significantly influence our attitudes toward fellow citizens political leaders and foreign nations The authors reveal for example that some people try to restore a sense of order and control through increased wariness of others especially of those who exist outside the societal mainstream Additionally voters under threat tend to prize strong leadership more highly than partisan affiliation making some politicians seem more charismatic than they otherwise would The authors show that a wary public will sometimes continue to empower such leaders after they have been elected giving them greater authority even at the expense of institutional checks and balances Having demonstrated that a climate of terrorist threat also increases support for restrictive laws at home and engagement against terrorists abroad Merolla and Zechmeister conclude that our responses to such threats can put democracy at risk Business and Management Education in Transitioning and Developing Countries John R McIntyre,Ilan Alon,2014-12-18 Business education is a critical ingredient in establishing a viable middle class of managers in transitioning and developing economies Compiled in association with the Center for International Business Education and Research this comprehensive examination of business and management education pedagogical models and curricula innovations in institutions around the world is the first such work to emphasize emerging markets Psychology of Religion Jacob A. van Belzen,2012-01-16 In the past four decades or so the so called psychology of religion after having been deemed extinct impossible or unlikely has risen to prominence again the number of publications is rapidly growing an impressive secondary literature handbooks introductions etc is available already infrastructure has been developed a number of new journals devoted to the subject have been founded organizations have been established increasingly funding is going to the area attracting many new researchers
