Operation Ice Cap:

Operation Ice Cap Brenda Jackson, Penguin Books Staff, Ronald L McDonald, 1969-05-01 Operation Ice Cap James Edmond Macdonnell, 1970 Ice Cap Strains and Some Effects on Engineering Structures Malcolm Mellor, Sherwood C. Reed, 1967 The components of strain for the upper layers of ice sheets are given in terms of ice flow velocity and snow accumulation rate Methods of estimating the components of strain rate which are necessary for design of engineering structures are outlined and representative measured values are given The relation between observed structural deformation and ice cap straining is discussed Author Environment of the Greenland Ice Cap Donald W. Hogue, 1964

Handbook of Gynaecological Operations Alban Henry Griffiths Doran, 1887 The Distribution of Ten-meter Snow Temperatures on the Greenland Ice Sheet Steven J. Mock, W. F. Weeks, Wilford F. Weeks, 1965 All available 10 m snow temperatures from the Greenland ice sheet have been collected and analyzed using multiple regression techniques to develop equations capable of accurately predicting these temperatures The resulting equations show that 10 m snow temperatures in north Greenland and its sub areas can be accurately predicted from the independent parameters latitude and elevation Longitude was found to be another significant parameter in south Greenland In all cases the values of the multiple correlation coefficients were 928 or greater Gradients of 10 m snow temperatures vs elevation for north Greenland are close to the dry adiabatic lapse rate indicating adiabatic warming of katabatic winds as the controlling mechanism in the altitudinal distribution of both mean annual air temperatures and 10 m snow temperatures in dry snow The data also suggest that south Greenland is colder with respect to its latitude and longitude than north Greenland An isotherm contour map showing the distribution of 10 m snow temperatures on the Greenland ice sheet calculated from the prediction equations was prepared A tabulation of the elevations and sources as well as brief studies of Marie Byrd Land and Victoria Land in the Antarctic are included Author Stratigraphic Studies in the Snow and Firn of the Greenland Ice Sheet Carl S. Benson, 1962 Summary results of fieldwork conducted in Greenland between 1952 and 1955 146 pit studies and 288 profiles were made Temperature density ram hardness and grain size were measured and the results are discussed in detail

Technical Report, 1967 Operation Ice Cap 1953, 1954 Air Force Manual United States. Department of the Air Force, 1959 Glaciological Studies in the Vicinity of Camp Century, Greenland Steven J. Mock, 1965 A series of pit studies was made across the Thule Peninsula in the vicinity of Camp Century Mean annual accumulation was found to range from 16.2 g sq cm to 60.3 g sq cm decreasing linearly with distance from moisture source area The Thule Peninsula was found to create a pronounced precipitation shadow The mean annual temperature as determined by 10 m snow temperatures decreased 1.2°C 100 m rise in elevation Seismic and elevation determinations indicate that Camp Century is at an elevation of 1885 m and is underlain by approximately 1380 m of ice Author Technical Report ES, 1961
