Synthesizing Systems Anna Darden Copeland, 2007-02-22 The purpose of this dissertation is to introduce a general reading audience to the major themes found in the fiction of Richard Powers with an emphasis on his use of science For Powers science is something more than the accumulation of technical data and the proliferation of theories developed to explain physical phenomena It is an evolving body of knowledge which has important insights to contribute into the conditions which ground human experience The close and often detailed discussions of contemporary issues in science which Powers incorporates into his fiction indicate the extent to which he sees science as an inseparable component in any attempt to understand the complexities of human experience The common ground Powers uses to link the interests of science and those of fiction into a balanced if not always harmonious pursuit of truth is wonder The limitations placed on science during this century do not undermine the ability of science to influence what we can know Nor do these limitations diminish the ability of science to inspire wonder Quite the opposite For Powers the true wonder of the human intellect rests in our remarkable ability to balance observation and interpretation What he discovers again and again in his fiction is that science like literature is a product of the human imagination a way to mediate between the world and our perceptions of it The recognition that science is a cultural practice a body of knowledge thoroughly imbued with the practices and prejudices of its historical surroundings is a necessary first step in mending the rift separating science and literature head and heart The greatest insight of twentieth century science may just be the recognition that there are other ways to access the truth Richard Powers skillful weaving of science and art is a testament that literature offers a unique vantage point from which we might learn something of value about ourselves and the world we inhabit

Imaginary Ethnographies Gabriele Schwab, 2012-09-18 Through readings of iconic figures such as the cannibal the child the alien and the posthuman Gabriele Schwab analyzes literary explorations at the boundaries of the human Treating literature as a dynamic medium that writes culture one that makes the abstract particular and local and situates us within the world Schwab pioneers a compelling approach to reading literary texts as anthropologies of the future that challenge habitual productions of meaning and knowledge Schwab's study draws on anthropology philosophy critical theory and psychoanalysis to trace literature's profound impact on the cultural imaginary Following a new interpretation of Derrida's and Lévi-Strauss's famous controversy over the indigenous Nambikwara Schwab explores the vicissitudes of traveling literature through novels and films that fashion a cross cultural imaginary She also examines the intricate links between colonialism cannibalism melancholia the fate of disenfranchised children under the forces of globalization and the intertwinement of property and personhood in the neoliberal imaginary Schwab concludes with an exploration of discourses on the posthuman using Samuel Beckett's The Lost Ones and its depiction of a future lived under the conditions of minimal life Drawing on a wide range of theories Schwab engages the productive intersections between literary studies and anthropology underscoring the power of literature to shape culture subjectivity and life

Vegetarianism and Veganism in Literature from the Ancients to the Twenty-First Century Theophilus Savvas, 2024-05-31 Vegetarianism and Veganism in Literature from the Ancients to the Twenty First Century reassesses both canonical and lesser well known literary texts to illuminate how vegetarianism and veganism can be understood as literary phenomena as well as dietary and cultural practises It offers a broad historical span ranging from ancient thinkers and writers such as Pythagoras and Ovid to contemporary novelists including Ruth L Ozeki and Jonathan Franzen The expansive historical scope is complemented by a cross cultural focus which emphasises that the philosophy behind these diets has developed through a dialogic relationship between east and west The book demonstrates also the way in which carnivorousism has functioned as an ideology one which has underpinned actions harmful to both human and non human animals

The Cambridge History of the American Novel Leonard Cassuto, Clare Virginia Eby, Benjamin Reiss, 2011-03-24 This ambitious literary history traces the American novel from its emergence in the late eighteenth century to its diverse incarnations in the multi ethnic multi media culture of the present day In a set of original essays by renowned scholars from all over the world the volume extends important critical debates and frames new ones Offering new views of American classics it also breaks new ground to show the role of popular genres such as science fiction and mystery novels in the creation of the literary tradition One of the original features of this book is the dialogue between the essays highlighting cross currents between authors and their works as well as across historical periods While offering a narrative of the development of the genre the History reflects the multiple methodologies that have informed readings of the American novel and will change the way scholars and readers think about American literary history

The Oxford History of the Novel in English Cyrus R. K. Patell, Deborah Lindsay Williams, 2024-03-05 The Oxford History of the Novel in English is a twelve volume series presenting a comprehensive global and up to date history of English language prose fiction written by a large international team of scholars The series is concerned with novels as a whole not just the literary novel and each volume includes chapters on the processes of production distribution and reception and on popular fiction and the fictional sub genres as well as outlining the work of major novelists movements and tendencies This book offers an account of US fiction during a period demarcated by two traumatic moments the eve of the entry of the United States into the Second World War and the onset of the Covid 19 pandemic The aftermath of the Second World War was arguably the high point of US nationalism but in the years that followed US writers would increasingly explore the possibility that US democracy was a failure both at home and abroad For so many of the writers whose work this volume explores the idea of nation became suspect as did the idea of national literature as the foundation for US writing Looking at post 1940s writing the literary historian might well chart a movement within literary cultures away from nationalism and toward what we would call cosmopolitanism a perspective that fosters conversations between the occupants of different cultural spaces and that regards difference as an opportunity to be embraced rather than a problem to be solved During this period the novel has had significant competition for the US public s attention from other forms of narrative and media film television comic books videogames and the internet and the various forms of social media that it spawned If however the novel becomes a residual form during this period it is by no means archaic The novel has been reinvigorated over the past eighty years by its encounters with both emergent forms such as film television comic books and digital media and the emergent voices typically associated with multiculturalism in the United States

Handbook of the American Novel of the Twentieth and Twenty-First Centuries Timo Müller,2017-01-11 Increasing specialization within the discipline of English and American Studies has shifted the focus of scholarly discussion toward theoretical reflection and cultural contexts These developments have benefitted the discipline in more ways than one but they have also resulted in a certain neglect of close reading As a result students and researchers interested in such material are forced to turn to scholarship from the 1960s and 1970s much of which relies on dated methodological and ideological presuppositions The handbook aims to fill this gap by providing new readings of texts that figure prominently in the literature classroom and in scholarly debate from James s The Ambassadors to McCarthy s The Road These readings do not revert naively to a time before theory Instead they distil the insights of literary and cultural theory into concise introductions to the historical background the themes the formal strategies and the reception of influential literary texts and they do so in a jargon free language accessible to readers on all levels of qualification characterization profound themes of technology and the environment and a deep exploration of our shared humanity in a way only Richard Powers can The Metanarrative Hall of Mirrors Garrett Stewart,2022-03-10 With its laser focus on the verbal and visual infrastructure of narrative The Metanarrative Hall of Mirrors is the first sustained comparative study of how image patterns are tracked in prose and cinema In film examples ranging from Citizen Kane through Apocalypse Now to Blade Runner 2049 then on to Christopher Nolan s 2020 Tenet Garrett Stewart follows the shift from celluloid to digital cinema through various narrative manifestations of the image from freeze frames to computer generated special effects By bringing cinema alongside literature Stewart discovers a common tendency in contemporary storytelling in both prose and visual narrative from the ongoing trend of mind game films to the often puzzling narrative eccentricities of such different writers as Nicholson Baker and Richard Powers including the latter s eerie mirroring of reader empathy in his 2021 Bewilderment

Jonathan Franzen at the End of Postmodernism Stephen J. Burn,2011-10-27 Jonathan Franzen is one of the most influential critically significant and popular contemporary American novelists This book is the first full length study of his work and attempts to articulate where American fiction is headed after postmodernism Stephen Burn provides a comprehensive analysis of each of Franzen s novels from his early work to the major success of The Corrections identifying key sources delineating important narrative strategies and revealing how Franzen s themes are reinforced by each novel s structure Supplementing this analysis with comparisons to key contemporaries David Foster Wallace and Richard Powers Burn suggests how Franzen s work is indicative of the direction of experimental American fiction in the wake of the so called end of postmodernism Terrorism, Media, and the Ethics of Fiction Peter Schneck,Philipp Schweighauser,2010-08-19

In his novel Mao II Don DeLillo lets his protagonist say Years ago I used to think it was possible for a novelist to alter the inner life of the culture Now bomb makers and gunmen have taken that territory They make raids on human consciousness DeLillo suggests that while the collective imagination of the past was guided by the creative order of narrative fictions our contemporary fantasies and anxieties are directed by the endless narratives of war and terror relayed by the mass media To take DeLillo s literary reflections on media terrorism and literature seriously means to engage with the ethical implications of his media critique This book departs from existing works on DeLillo not only through its focus on the function of literature as public discourse in culture but also in its decidedly transatlantic perspective Bringing together prominent DeLillo scholars in Europe and in the US it is the first critical book on DeLillo to position his work in a transatlantic context American
