Opportunities for Excellence Tecla Jaskulski, William Ebenstein, 1996-06-01 This report strongly supports efforts throughout the U S to improve the lives dignity and status of people with mental retardation MR An important component of improving the lives of citizens with MR is recognizing the critical role played by direct support workers in delivering quality support and care to individuals and families who seek their assistance This report describes many promising state training initiatives that create career pathways for direct support staff and that also enhance their public image The intention is to increase access to competency based training higher educ and career mentoring Staff Recruitment and Retention Sheryl Ann Larson, K. Charlie Lakin, Robert H. Bruininks, David L. Braddock, American Association on Mental Retardation, 1998 A monograph that presents studies on recruitment and retention of direct support professionals including strategies to reduce turnover of newly hired staff Embarking on a New Century Robert L. Schalock, Pamela C. Baker, M. Doreen Croser, 2002 Captures the challenging and controversial era between 1975 2000 that led the field of intellectual disability into an age of community acceptance and inclusion This title includes chapters that focus themes such as public policy and health care

A Longitudinal Study of Turnover Among Newly Hired Residential Direct Support Workers in Small Community Homes Serving People with Developmental Disabilities Sheryl Ann Larson, 1997 Making Life Work Jack Levinson, Group homes emerged in the United States in the 1970s as a solution to the failure of the large institutions that for more than a century segregated and abused people with intellectual and developmental disabilities Yet community services have not for the most part delivered on the promises of rights self determination and integration made more than thirty years ago and critics predominantly portray group homes simply as settings of social control Making Life Work is a clear eyed ethnography of a New York City group home based on more than a year of field research Jack Levinson shows how the group home needs the knowledgeable and voluntary participation of residents and counselors alike The group home is an actual workplace for counselors but for residents group home work involves working on themselves to become more autonomous Levinson reveals that rather than being seen as the antithesis of freedom the group home must be understood as representing the fundamental dilemmas between authority and the individual in contemporary liberal societies No longer inmates but citizens these people who are presumed rightly or wrongly to lack the capacity for freedom actually govern themselves Levinson a former group home counselor demonstrates that the group home depends on the very capacities for independence and individuality it cultivates in the residents At the same time he addresses the complex relationship between services and social control in the history of intellectual and developmental disabilities interrogating broader social service policies and the role of clinical practice in the community Identification of Competencies and Effective Training Practices for Direct Support Staff Working in Community Residential Services for People with Developmental Disabilities Amy Sue Hewitt, 1998 Staff Recruitment, Retention, & Training Strategies for Community Human Services Organizations Sheryl

Ann Larson, Amy S. Hewitt, 2005 This book provides practical strategies for managers and supervisors of human services agencies to use in assessing and successfully addressing workforce challenges Each strategy is described with detailed instructions about how to assess the strategy develop an intervention plan and evaluate its effectiveness Chapters also discuss how and why each strategy should be used The book includes worksheets forms flow charts and examples of how successful agencies have used these strategies Quality Enhancement in Developmental Disabilities Valerie J.

Bradley, Madeleine H. Kimmich, 2003 As person centered services and supports become more prevalent people with disabilities are enjoying more choices and opportunities making it challenging to ensure the quality of every service offered This timely book helps meet that challenge Diverse contributors including researchers care providers policy makers self advocates and family members combine their expertise to help readers understand the changed expectations of people with disabilities and their families and the resulting challenges to quality enhancement clarify the roles of Medicaid and the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services address health and safety issues including investigation of abuse neglect and death design databases that track outcomes and target areas for service improvement translate quality information into reliable quality enhancement approaches manage staffing challenges like recruitment retention and professional development consider future recommendations and policy directions Building on Bradley Bersani's Quality Assurance for Individuals with Developmental Disabilities this important resource clarifies the shift toward self determination and individually tailored supports and shows professionals in the human services field how to enhance service quality in this rapidly changing world District of Columbia Appropriations for 1999 United States. Congress. House. Committee on Appropriations. Subcommittee on District of Columbia Appropriations, 1999 District of Columbia Appropriations United States. Congress. House.
