knowledge of the important roles these bountiful lands play in the course of human survival people started treating forests with greater respect though it took centuries for these concepts to take hold Until just over one hundred years ago forests were still being cut down without care or concern Vast forests that provided so much humankind needed were being neglected No attention was given to preventing disease insects soil erosion and even fires from destroying large swaths of forest land There was little public recognition of the importance wood lands play in providing refuge for wildlife help with climate control clean water and air and a peaceful unblemished retreat for people of all ages In addition we depend on wood for products from paper to furniture Maintaining healthy forests requires hard work strategic planning and endless care Fortunately the forestland that is left can still be saved and that vital job falls to foresters Future foresters will continue this proud tradition armed with modern technology and applying it to enhance the growth of woodlands around the globe It can take up to 250 years for nature to produce mature harvestable trees to replace those cut down The demand for this wood is simply too great for nature to provide what is needed Scientists working in forestry have found ways to grow trees on managed property in one fifth the time and with six times the volume People get the wood they need from these controlled wood growing environments and natural forestland can be preserved in its undisturbed state     A Job with the Forest Service ,1981     Career Opportunities in the Armed Forces C.
