

A wide-angle photograph of a long, multi-span bridge stretching across a calm body of water. The bridge features several tall, A-frame pylons supporting the deck. The water is a deep blue, and the sky is a mix of orange, yellow, and blue, indicating a sunset or sunrise. The bridge recedes into the distance, creating a strong sense of perspective.

Un pont entre deux rives Alain Leblanc, 2019-06-06 Emigration Nations M. Collyer, 2013-10-16 Some states have a long history of reaching out to citizens living in other countries but since 2000 it has become much more common for states to encourage loyalty from current or former citizens living abroad Using detailed case studies this book sets out to explain this significant development with an innovative new theoretical framework Encyclopedia of French Film Directors Philippe Rège, 2009-12-11 Cinema has been long associated with France dating back to 1895 when Louis and Auguste Lumière screened their works the first public viewing of films anywhere Early silent pioneers Georges Méliès Alice Guy Blaché and others followed in the footsteps of the Lumière brothers and the tradition of important filmmaking continued throughout the 20th century and beyond In Encyclopedia of French Film Directors Philippe Rège identifies every French director who has made at least one feature film since 1895 From undisputed masters to obscure one timers nearly 3 000 directors are cited here including at least 200 filmmakers not mentioned in similar books published in France Each director's entry contains a brief biographical summary including dates and places of birth and death information on the individual's education and professional training and other pertinent details such as real names when the filmmaker uses a pseudonym The entries also provide complete filmographies including credits for feature films shorts documentaries and television work Some of the most important names in the history of film can be found in this encyclopedia from masters of the Golden Age Jean Renoir and René Clair to French New Wave artists such as François Truffaut and Jean Luc Godard The Transnational State Thomas Lacroix, 2024-05-23 This work in two parts examines the relations between transnational societies and states The second volume of this work contends that current policies meant to control or enhance transnational flows have led to the emergence of a transnational policy apparatus coined the transnational state This book proposes an innovative conceptual framework to grasp the transformations of the contemporary state in both sending and receiving countries It shows how states expand beyond national territorial limits by reaching out to migrants where they are In response to the migrants endeavours to circumvent the constraints imposed by selective migration policies public authorities expand the reach of their control beyond externalisation within internalisation and at expansion borders A totalitarian temptation seems to have seized contemporary state bureaucracies affecting the very nature of borders and societies The core argument of this research is that the development of the transnational state is not random It is a process shaping and shaped by the structures of the transnational society

Porta Palazzo Rachel E. Black, 2012-04-16 Porta Palazzo arguably Western Europe s largest open air market is a central economic social and cultural hub for Italians and migrants in the city of Turin Open air markets like Porta Palazzo have existed for centuries in Europe although their function has changed over time traditional markets are no longer the primary place to buy food they remain popular destinations In an age of supermarkets and online commerce markets offer unique social and cultural opportunities and bring together urban and rural worldviews These factors are often overlooked in traditional economic studies of food distribution but anthropologist Rachel E Black contends that social relations are essential for building and maintaining valuable links between production and consumption From the history of Porta Palazzo to the current growing pains of the market this book concentrates on points where trade meets cultural identities and cuisine Its detailed and perceptive portraits of the market bring into relief the lives of the vendors shoppers and passersby Black s ethnography illuminates the daily work of market going and the anxieties of shoppers as they navigate the market It examines migration the link between cuisine and cultural identity culinary tourism the connection between the farmers market and the production of local food and the urban planning issues negotiated by the city of Turin and market users during a recent renovation This vibrant study featuring a foreword by Slow Food Movement founder Carlo Petrini makes a strong case for why markets like Porta Palazzo are critical for fostering culinary culture and social life in cities
