Proud To Be White A Survey Of Pakeha Prejudice In New Zealand:

Proud to be White? Angela Ballara, 1986 Angel Ballara argues that ethnocentric and racist attitudes have been formative influences in New Zealand's development. Some of the most notable contributors to racism have been Pakeha though historians seeking to present a balanced and positive view have usually avoided emphasising this fact. As a result racism and its source ethnocentric prejudice have not been given sufficient weight as causative factors in the formation of New Zealand society. It is this imbalance that Ballara's provocative and powerfully documented book attempts to redress. Reading Pakeha? Christina Stachurski, 2009 Aotearoa New Zealand a tiny Pacific country is of great interest to those engaged in postcolonial and literary studies throughout the world. In all former colonies myths of national identity are vested with various interests. Shifts in collective Pakeha or New Zealand European identity have been marked by the phenomenal popularity of three novels each at a time of massive social change. Late colonialism, anti imperialism and the collapse of the idea of a singular nation can be traced through the reception of John Mulgan's Man Alone 1939, Keri Hulme's The Bone People 1983 and Alan Duff's Once Were Warriors 1990. Yet close analysis of these three novels also reveals marginalization and silencing in claims to singular Pakeha identity and a linear development of settler acculturation. Such a dynamic resonates with that of other settler cultures, the similarities and differences telling in comparison. Specifically Reading Pakeha: Fiction and Identity in Aotearoa New Zealand explores how concepts of race and ethnicity intersect with those of gender, sex and sexuality. This book also asks whether Pakeha is still a meaningful term. English Language as Hydra Vaughan Rapatahana, Pauline Bunce, 2012-06-22 English Language as Hydra argues that far too often the English language industry has become a swirling, beguiling monster unashamedly intent on challenging local linguistic diversity and threatening individual identities. This book brings together the voices of linguists, literary figures and teaching professionals in a wide ranging exposé of this enormous Hydra in action on four continents. Matters of the Heart Angela Wanhalla, 2014-01-01 From whalers and traders marrying into Maori families in the early 19th century to the growth of interracial marriages in the later 20th, Matters of the Heart unravels the long history of interracial relationships in New Zealand. It encompasses common law marriages and Maori customary marriages alongside formal arrangements recognized by church and state and shows how public policy and private life were woven together. It also explores the gamut of official reactions from condemnation of interracial immorality or racial treason to celebration of New Zealand's unique intermarriage patterns as a sign of its progressive attitude toward race relations. This social history focuses on the lives and experiences of real Maori and Pakeha people and reveals New Zealand's changing attitudes to race, marriage and intimacy. The Politics of Incompetence Neriko Musha Doerr, 2024-06-25 Incompetence is not an objective state lacking competence nor a kind of deficiency that needs to be filled. Rather it is a constructed state that is productive, working in tandem with its opposite, competence. Perception of incompetence, competence works as what Michel Foucault 1977 calls a technology of normalization that pushes individuals to aspire to follow a shared norm while hierarchically differentiating individuals according to their proximity to the aspired norm The notion of incompetence is thus productive in that it turns individuals into specific kinds of subjects Foucault 1977 The Politics of Incompetence Learning Language Relations of Power and Daily Resistance further investigates other productive processes around the perception of incompetence specifically through its intersections with various ideologies academic achievement teacher student hierarchy native speaker ideology normative unit thinking and privilege of vulnerability as such intersections generate new knowledge new reflection on one's assumptions and privilege new space for marginalized language and more This volume opens up a new area of study productive cultural politics of incompetence by focusing on language learning in diverse contexts Japanese as a Foreign Language classrooms in US colleges Italian language tourism in Italy and indigenous Māori language revitalization at an Aotearoa New Zealand school Imagining Children Otherwise Michael O'Loughlin, Richard T. Johnson, 2010 This collection of articles is a sociolinguistic response to the recent explosion of scholarly interest in issues of identity Identity is central to all human beings as we are all concerned with how to conceive of ourselves present ourselves and comprehend our relationships with others The book tackles the problem of how personal identity is made visible and intelligible to others through language and how this may be constrained Part One Emblematic identities focuses on the construction of self definitions based on various forms of group identities including national and ethnic ones Part Two Multicultural Identities looks at negotiation of identities in multicultural contexts involving relations of power drawing on examples from Europe and the Americas Finally Part Three Emergent Identities collects empirical studies based on a close reading of texts in which identities are being articulated and negotiated Buying the Land, Selling the Land Richard Boast, 2008 Studying Crown Maori land policy and practice in the period 1869-1929 from the establishment of the Native Land Court power until the cessation of large scale Crown purchasing by Gordon Coates this investigation chronicles the bleak and grim tidal wave of Crown purchasing that dominated the Maori people under very difficult circumstances While recognizing that the government purchasing of Maori land was in its own way driven by genuine if blinkered idealism this work's deep research on land purchasing policy gives renewed insight on the significant politicians of the era such as Sir Donald McLean John Balance and John McKenzie who were strong advocates of expanded and state controlled land purchasing Race and Regionalism in the Politics of Taxation in Brazil and South Africa Evan S. Lieberman, 2003-09 Table of contents Colonial Constructs Leonard Bell, 2013-11-01 How did the European settler perceive Māori What images of Māori society and culture did European artists create for their distant audiences What preconceptions and aesthetic models lay behind early European depictions of Māori These are some of the questions explored by art historian Leonard Bell in this major study of the relationship between the visual representation of Māori and the ideology of colonialism He explores the complex and unbalanced cultural interchange between Europeans and Māori in nineteenth century New Zealand in addition to showing how the great range and variety of pictures often revealed more about the artists and their society and its attitudes than they did about M ori themselves This lively and readable book is well illustrated with examples of the artists work and will be an important contribution to the understanding of colonial New Zealand and the role played by the artist in expressing and creating cultural patterns Historical Dictionary of New Zealand Janine Hayward, Richard Shaw, Lara Greaves, Claire Timperley, 2024-11-19 The Historical Dictionary of New Zealand Fourth Edition provides a broad introduction to New Zealand as well as rich detail about the people events laws concepts and institutions that have shaped New Zealand history This is done through a chronology an introduction and an extensive bibliography The dictionary section has more than 800 cross referenced entries on important personalities as well as aspects of the country s politics economy foreign relations religion and culture This book is an excellent resource for students researchers and anyone wanting to know more about New Zealand

Entanglements of Empire Tony Ballantyne, 2015-03-16 Entanglements of Empire explores the political cultural and economic entanglements and irrevocable social transformations that resulted from Maori engagements with Protestant missionaries at the most distant edge of the British empire The first Protestant mission to New Zealand established in 1814 saw the beginning of complex political cultural and economic entanglements with Maori Entanglements of Empire is a deft reconstruction of the cross cultural translations of this early period Misunderstanding was rife the physical body itself became the most contentious site of cultural engagement as Maori and missionaries struggled over issues of hygiene tattooing clothing and sexual morality In this fascinating study Tony Ballantyne explores the varying understandings of such concepts as civilization work time and space and gender and the practical consequences of the struggles over these ideas The encounters in the classroom chapel kitchen and farmyard worked mutually to affect both the Maori and the English worldviews Ultimately the interest in missionary Christianity among influential Maori chiefs had far reaching consequences for both groups Concluding in 1840 with the signing of the Treaty of Waitangi and the new age it ushered in Ballantyne s book offers important insights into this crucial period of New Zealand history

Fairness and Freedom David Hackett Fischer, 2012-02-10 From one of America s preeminent historians comes a magisterial study of the development of open societies focusing on the United States and New Zealand

Webs of Empire Tony Ballantyne, 2014-04-01 Breaking open colonization to reveal tangled cultural and economic networks Webs of Empire offers new paths into our colonial history Linking Gore and Chicago Maori and Asia India and newspapers whalers and writing empire building becomes a spreading web of connected places people ideas and trade These links question narrow national stories while broadening perspectives on the past and the legacies of colonialism that persist today Bringing together essays from two decades of prolific publishing on international colonial history Webs of Empire establishes Tony Ballantyne as one of the leading historians of the British Empire

An Indigenous Ocean Damon Salesa, 2023-11-01 The Pacific s Indigenous times are not just smaller sections of larger histories but dimensions of their own Histories of our Pacific world are richly rendered in these essays by Damon Salesa From the first Indigenous civilisations that flourished in Oceania to the colonial encounters of the nineteenth century and on to the complex contemporary relationships between New Zealand and the Pacific. Salesa offers new perspectives on this vast ocean, its people, its cultures, its pasts, and its future. Spanning a wide range of topics from race and migration to Pacific studies and empire, these essays demonstrate Salesa's remarkable scholarship. Bridging the gap between academic disciplines and cultural traditions, Salesa locates Pacific peoples always at the centre of their stories. An Indigenous Ocean is a pivotal contribution to understanding the history and culture of Oceania.

Being Māori in the City Natacha Gagné, 2013-01-01 Indigenous peoples around the world have been involved in struggles for decolonization, self-determination, and recognition of their rights, and the Māori of Aotearoa New Zealand are no exception. Now that nearly 85% of the Māori population have their main place of residence in urban centres, cities have become important sites of affirmation and struggle. Grounded in an ethnography of everyday life in the city of Auckland, Being Māori in the City is an investigation of what being Māori means today. One of the first ethnographic studies of Māori urbanization since the 1970s, this book is based on almost two years of fieldwork living with Māori families and more than 250 hours of interviews. In contrast with studies that have focused on indigenous elites and official groups and organizations, Being Māori in the City shines a light on the lives of ordinary individuals and families. Using this approach, Natacha Gagné adroitly underlines how indigenous ways of being are maintained and even strengthened through change and openness to the larger society.

New Zealand Identities James H. Liu, 2006-04-01 Fifteen writers with diverse personal and scholarly backgrounds come together in this collection to examine issues of identity, viewing it as both a departing point and end destination for the various peoples who have come to call New Zealand home. The essays reflect the diversity of thinking about identity across the social sciences, as well as common themes that transcend disciplinary boundaries. Their explorations of the process of identity-making underscore the historical roots, dynamism, and plurality of ideas of national identity in New Zealand, offering a view not only of what has been but also what might be on the horizon.

The Fate of the Land Ko nga Akinga a nga Rangatira Danny Keenan, 2023-04-13 In the second half of the nineteenth century settlers poured into Aotearoa demanding land Millions of acres were acquired by the government or directly by settlers or confiscated after the Land Wars By 1891 when the Liberal government came to power Maori retained only a fraction of their lands And still the losses continued For rangatira such as James Carroll Wiremu Pere Paora Tuhaere Te Keepa Te Rangihwinui and many others the challenges were innumerable To stop further land loss some rangatira saw parliamentary process as the mechanism others pursued political independence

For over two decades Maori men and women of outstanding ability fought hard to protect their people and their land. How those rangatira fared and how they should be remembered is the story of Maori political struggle during the Liberal era.
