American Architect, 1908      Contamination and Purity in Early Modern Art and Architecture Lauren Jacobi, Daniel Zolli, 2025-10-01 The concepts of purity and contamination preoccupied early modern Europeans fundamentally structuring virtually every aspect of their lives not least how they created and experienced works of art and the built environment In an era that saw a great number of objects and people in motion the meteoric rise of new artistic and building technologies and religious upheaval exert new pressures on art and its institutions anxieties about the pure and the contaminated distinctions between the clean and unclean sameness and difference self and other organization and its absence took on heightened importance In this series of geographically and methodologically wide ranging essays thirteen leading historians of art and architecture grapple with the complex ways that early modern actors negotiated these concerns covering topics as diverse as Michelangelo's unfinished sculptures Venetian plague hospitals Spanish Muslim tapestries and emergency currency The resulting volume offers surprising new insights into the period and into the modern disciplinary routines of art and architectural history Provides a novel perspective on the art and architecture of early modern Europe and its colonial territories by focusing on the opposing analytical categories of purity and contamination while also paying attention to their extraordinary theoretical and historical variety Offers new readings of works both canonical e g Michelangelo's unfinished sculptures Durer's Italianate influences and less so e g Vermeiren's tapestries of the Conquest of Tunis Models a new approach to an important epoch in the history of art architecture and culture bringing together the close study of objects e g tapestries sculpture and coins and materials e g cosmetics dyes stone with wider topics such as global exchange and economics Inspires broader questions about the ideological underpinnings of early modernity while also offering new insights into the implications of the current material turn and global turn in the humanities Features twelve essays by leading scholars of the art and architecture of southern and northern Europe the colonial Americas and southeast Asia with correspondingly broad geographical and chronological coverage      Bibliographic Guide to Art and Architecture New York Public Library. Art and Architecture Division, 1980      The American Architect and Building News, 1908      American Architect and the Architectural Review, 1908      Raphael's Poetics David Rijser, 2025-10-01 Raphael's Poetics applies strategies of interpretation implicit in antique poetry to the visual art of the Renaissance concentrating on Raphael's Roman works and their cultural context Until recently scholarly discussion was dominated by the application of Renaissance literary theory to visual arts obscuring the fact that Renaissance humanists who contributed to literary theory were in the first instance and almost without exception poets rather than theorists To counter the tendency towards theory the hermeneutic rules implicit in their poetry and thus the poetry itself is brought to the fore by this study as a hermeneutical tool By focusing on the interaction between the work of art and its public Rijser offers innovative interpretations of canonical works and important insights into the cultural history of the early modern period Reconstructing
