Earth's Layers

If you could cut the Earth in half, you would see that it is not just solid rock. Instead, it is made of different layers - some liquid and some solid, some rock and some metal! Inside the Earth is a very hot place. We cannot travel into the Earth to see its layers. Scientists called geologists study clues on the surface to learn about Earth's layers below.

The outermost layer of Earth is called the crust. The crust is made mostly of rocks and soil. It is the part of the Earth that we live on. The crust is about 5 miles thick under the oceans and 25 miles thick under land.

If you could dig all the way through Earth's crust, you would reach the mantle. The mantle is the thickest layer, reaching 1,800 miles deep into the Earth. The mantle makes up about 85% of Earth's weight. That means that most of the Earth is mantle. The mantle has its own layers. The first layer is solid rock. Next comes a layer of molten, or melted, rock called magma. And finally, another layer of solid rock.

After the mantle comes the Earth's core. The Earth has an outer core and an inner core. First comes the outer core which is about 3,000 miles below the Earth's surface. The outer core is also made of magma, but instead of melted rock, it is melted metals like iron and nickel. The outer core creates the Earth's magnetic field.

At the very center of Earth is a solid ball of iron and other minerals called the inner core. The center of the Earth is extremely hot with temperatures reaching 9,000 to 13,000 degrees! The extreme pressure at the center of Earth keeps the inner core from melting.

How do we know so much about the inside of Earth? Geologists get clues about Earth's layers by studying rocks, minerals, and even metals pushed up to the surface by volcanoes. Even though we cannot see the layers with our own eyes, these clues show us what's down there!

Reading The Earth A Story Of Wilderneb:

Reading the Earth David Brower, 2000 In the role of elder and sage activist David Brower describes the story of the earth's origins and evolution to three children spinning a cautionary tale of caring for the earth Full color illustrations

Postcolonial Commentary and the Old Testament Hemchand Gossai, 2018-11-01 This is the first volume to provide a wide range of postcolonial interpretations of and commentaries upon significant texts in the Hebrew Bible The volume intersects with the work of the key theorists in postcolonial studies such as Fanon Senghor Said and Spivak as well as with scholars such as Sugirtharajah Kwok Pui lan and Segovia who have applied this theory to biblical studies Texts have been chosen specifically for their relevance to postcolonial discourse rather than seeking to cover each biblical document This volume is designed to demonstrate how historical criticism postmodernism and the important concerns of postcolonial readings may be integrated to obtain an informed explanation of the Hebrew Bible and the writings of early Judaism The chapters are written by scholars who represent a spectrum of national indigenous and diasporic contexts Taken together these perspectives and the interpretations they yield represent a continued expansion of the manner in which Old Testament texts are read and interpreted through postcolonial lenses reminding readers that the interpretive trajectories of these texts are almost inexhaustible As such the volume serves as not only an addition to ongoing scholarship on postcolonialism but also as an expansion of the horizon for dialogue

The Earth Story in the New Testament Norman C. Habel, Vicky Balabanski, 2002-10-01 The Earth Bible is an international project including volumes on ecojustice readings of major sections of the Bible The basic aims of the Earth Bible project are to develop ecojustice principles appropriate to an Earth hermeneutic for interpreting the Bible and for promoting justice and healing for Earth to publish these interpretations as contributions to the current debate on ecology ecoethics and ecotheology to provide a responsible forum within which the suppressed voice of Earth may be heard and impulses for healing Earth may be generated The project explores text and tradition from the perspective of Earth employing a set of ecojustice principles developed in consultation with ecologists suspecting that the text and or its interpreters may be anthropocentric and not geocentric but searching to retrieve alternative traditions that hear the voice of Earth and value Earth as more than a human instrument The lead article in Volume V is a reflection in responses to the ecojustice principles employed in the hermeneutic of the project Several articles offer insights into New Testament texts that seem to devalue Earth in favour of heaven The final article by Barbara Rossing challenges the popular apocalyptic notion that in the new age Earth will be terminated A feature of this volume is a dialogue between Norman Habel who argues that John One seems to devalue Earth and two respondents Elaine Wainwright and Vicky Balabanski who is coeditor of this volume with Norman Habel 1 Stories from the Gospels William Loring Worcester,1908 Literature of Nature Patrick D. Murphy,Terry Gifford,Katsunori Yamazato,1998 First Published in 1999 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company Books of 1912- Chicago Public Library,1924 The Cosmic Journey in the Book of Revelation Joel M. Rothman,2023-05-18 Joel M Rothman considers the significance of cosmology in biblical and extra biblical texts and the role of the cosmic journey in many apocalyptic narratives He posits that Revelation s narrative likewise takes the hearer on a virtual journey through a cosmic story space of great theological significance While scholarship commonly assumes a three tiered cosmos in Revelation Rothman argues that Revelation s narrative operates in a four tiered cosmos with the hyper heaven sitting above the sky heaven earth and abyssal depths a cosmic story space that is recreated in the imagination of the hearers Beginning with a methodology of visual narrative reading Rothman then discusses the assumptions and existing conceptions regarding heaven and earth He stresses that Revelation does not exhibit tension in its portrayal of heaven between heaven as a site of conflict and heaven as the realm in which God truly reigns but rather shows readers a sky heaven characterised by archetypal conflict between powerful sky beings and a hyper heaven defined by full recognition of the Throne In journeying through the sky structure and God space and by analysing the four cosmic layers in operation the distinct nature of the two sky spaces cosmic change and the ideological import of the cosmic structure Rothman demonstrates that the existence of the hyper heaven in contradistinction with the limited lived cosmos of earth and sky heaven is a present guarantee of the final cosmic transformation that creates a new space for human life exclusive of imperial draconian elements The Cyr Readers Ellen M. Cyr ("Mrs. R. P. Smith".),1901 Western Teacher ,1902 The Torah Story Gary Edward Schnittjer,2010-06-01 Working knowledge of the Torah is essential for every serious student of the Scriptures Written in an engaging and accessible voice even while digging into difficult and complicated matters at a sophisticated level The Torah Story emphasizes the content of the text itself moving beyond debating dates and theories of authorship into understanding how these five key books of the Bible help us understand the story of salvation Providing flexible options for further study each chapter includes the following Tips and tools for getting started Questions that focus on key issues Key terms to look for Outlines and summaries of the material An interactive workshop designed for students individuals or study groups Challenge questions drawn from the chapter and biblical text Advanced questions for those who want deeper exploration of biblical contexts language and exegetical or theological issues Research project suggestions Discussion activities using films to engage the biblical narrative selected chapters A refreshingly new approach to the Torah neither an introduction nor a commentary The Torah Story provides a model of how to read Scripture intertextually It leaves no doubt as to the overarching unity of the message and composition of the Pentateuch The Rock Rabbit and the Rainbow Laurens Van der Post, 1998 Sir Laurens van der Post author film maker storyteller of world wide renown soldier prisoner of war political advisor to heads of state humanitarian explorer conservationist the list goes on and on His extraordinary curiosity his love for the small and the great and his tremendous feeling and concern for his surroundings and all that they included set him travelling the lands and the waters of the world a messenger in search of meaning He touched and inspired many along the way some of whom are to be found in the pages of this book A true man of his time Sir Laurens was born in 1906 in the interior of South Africa served in the British forces during World War II including three and a half years in Japanese captivity and lived and worked since that time in London where he died just after celebrating his 90th birthday in December 1996 The Rock Rabbit and The Rainbow was originally conceived as a Festschrift or gift collection of writings for Sir Laurens by several of his friends and then evolved into its present form which includes numerous original contributions by Sir Laurens himself Cyr's Readers: First reader Ellen M.
