The Terrestrial Biosphere S.T. Trudgill, 2014-09-25 Terrestrial Biosphere tries to pose the questions which underlie the many sided debate of how to respond to and influence change How should we view nature What do we do for the best how should we act what are we trying to achieve and what should we be guided by In doing so the book introduces and attempts to analyse not only scientific aspects of the debate but also cultural attitudes and values the notions of ecosystem stability are now challenged and it is also clear that ecosystems are renewable but not repeatable It finds that prescriptive solutions based on current constructs may not be adequate Feeling that analysis should lead to advocacy the author believes that if we can't improve predictability we have to increase adaptability which means that ecological and social capacity building should be advocated This is seen in terms of concepts institutions attitudes and values which allow for a plurality of meanings and which can cope with surprise and unforeseen change and which also facilitates responses to change Women in Landscape Architecture Louise A. Mazingo, Linda Jewell, 2011-12-22 While many fields struggle to specify feminine contributions the work of women has always played a fundamental role in American landscape architecture Women claim responsibility for many landscape types now taken for granted including community gardens playgrounds and streetscapes This collection of essays by leaders in the discipline addresses the ways that gender has influenced the history design practice and perception of landscapes It highlights women's relation to landscape architecture presents the professional efforts of women in the landscape realm examines both the perception and experience of landscapes by women and speculates on ways to re-imagine gender and the landscape
