abortion and traditional family values preempted such issues In the wake of the 2000 election and at the start of a new administration committed to elevating the role of religion in politics Jo Renee Formicola Hubert Morken and this prominent collection of contributors ask might we expect greater American religious involvement in the years ahead This is essential reading for anyone interested in religious and political activism or the evolving relationship between church and state in America

Fostering Collaborations Between African American Communities and Educational Institutions Jones, Patrice Wynette, 2019-12-13 Historically African American communities were marked by a strong sense of community promoted by limited resources and racial segregation However with integration African American populations grew less concentrated in the same areas and this population of people began to rely less on each other In an effort to attain equality which still at times feels elusive and challenged the sense of community and impact of education once prevalent among African Americans has suffered Fostering Collaborations Between African American Communities and Educational Institutions is a pivotal reference source that explores pre segregation experiences of community and education as well as the changes among HBCUs and public education in predominately African American and poor areas The book sheds light on the relationship between racial and educational disparities and reveals the impact of community and cultural co dependence in moving African Americans toward a more socially equitable place within American culture Covering topics such as the achievement gap community relationships and teacher education this publication is ideally designed for educators higher education faculty HBCUs researchers policymakers non profit organizers historians sociologists academicians and students
