Administrative Reform in Post-Mao China Stephen K. Ma, 1996 This book analyzes China's bureaucratic behavior since the inauguration of administrative reform in the late 1970s Although bureaucratic behavior in China in the past decade was increasingly corrupted this aspect of China's post Mao reform has not been subjected to a rigorous scrutiny This book explores the gulf between desired and the actual bureaucratic behavior among China's public administrators The author argues that this behavioral gap in China's modernization stems from several factors including the nation's cultural heritage the ruling party's approach to government and the absence of trusted full fledged academic groups assigned to advise on administrative reform The book then probes one of the gravest consequences of the behavioral gap reform corruption a phenomenon which seems to be a mixed blessing of modernization

China's Transition from Socialism Dorothy J. Solinger, 1993 The essays in this volume address the industrial commercial urban and regional reforms of China's planned economy during the 1980s The emphasis is on the dominating institutional and bureaucratic presence of the state even as it sought to loosen the pre 1979 vertically structured centralised command system and to introduce some market principles to stimulate economic activity The essays fall into four categories theoretical and policy discussions and debates at the central leadership level reform of the urban economy and of inter regional relations industrial and commercial reforms and the rise and position of the new entrepreneurial class Many of the essays draw on interviews with Chinese economic officials in the Central China city of Wuhan and therefore this is the only study that uses local data on actual operations of reforms from a Chinese city the other sources are the Chinese press and Chinese official and scholarly journals In each of the categories there are pieces from different points in the chronological process of reform This study begins with the first theoretical discussions among China's economists and top political leaders in the late 1970s and concludes with experiments with bankruptcy and stock markets in the late 1980s The countervailing heavy presence of the state at both the policy and the practical levels throughout the reform decade is its unifying theme

Law Reform in Developing and Transitional States Timothy Lindsey, 2007 Law reform in developing countries has become an increasingly topical subject in recent years A critical issue is why so many law reform projects in developing economies are regarded by their sponsors and recipients as unsuccessful This informative book examines examples of law reform projects in post socialist and post authoritarian states in Asia identifies common problems proposes analytical frameworks for understanding the problems identified Though parallels between Asian models and those in developing states elsewhere in the world are strong the book has been developed to avoid suggestion that the issues covered are somehow peculiarly Asian indeed it is shown that cultural relativist approaches to Asia are unsustainable This is an invaluable reference for those involved in the areas of development economics Asian studies and comparative politics

China In The Post-utopian Age Christopher J. Smith, 2019-04-11 China in the Post Utopian Age is an interdisciplinary book about China in the post utopian age focusing on the transformations that have occurred during the leaderships of Deng Xiaoping and Jiang Zemin throughout the 1980s and 1990s     The Institutional Transition of China's Township and Village Enterprises Hongyi Chen, 2017-11-22 This title was first published in 2000 This work provides a new insight into China's township and village enterprises TVEs It views the governance structure of TVEs as effectively combining the comparative advantage of local government officials in external management and of dual firm managers in internal management to overcome imperfections in both market and government during the transitional period Through extensive field investigation analysis and case studies this work shows that the governance structure of TVEs has been evolving during the past fifteen years To adapt to the changing environment TVEs have continuously innovated firm contractual form from a government official dominant fixed wage form to a partnership style profit sharing form then to a privatization oriented fixed rent form This work develops a complete model to explain how the central government's partial reform efforts in market liberalization have become the driving force to induce the contractual form innovation and to explicate how heterogeneity in firms technical structures and in local economic settings may affect local government's decisions regarding contractual form innovation. Using the author's unique data set the model simulations predict that the development in the whole market system will result in the diffusion of contractual form innovation and lead to an induced privatization in this sector. The following empirical studies show this to be a powerful prediction and the progress toward such induced privatization can be expected in China in near future. This research work provides a rich empirical study on China's institutional transition towards a market system. It explains how a bottom up endogenous instead of top down exogenous property rights reform can be realized in transitional economies. This work will serve as a valuable reference for researchers and students in economics, economic development and institutional economics and especially for those interested in research.

The Everyday Impact of Economic Reform in China Ying Zhu, Michael Webber, John Benson, 2010-05-11

During the past 30 years China has undergone extensive economic reform replacing the government's administration of enterprises with increasing levels of market oriented enterprise autonomy. At the heart of the reform are changes in the employment relationship where state control has been superseded by market relationships. These reforms have had far reaching implications for many aspects of everyday life in Chinese society. This book appraises the impact of the economic reforms on the employment relationship and in turn examines the effects on individual workers and their families including salaries, working conditions and satisfaction, job security and disparities based on location, gender, age, skill, position and migrant status. In particular it focuses on how changes in the employment relationship have affected the livelihood strategies of households. It explores the changing human resource management practices and employment relations in different types of enterprises including State Owned Enterprises, Foreign Owned Enterprises and Domestic Private Enterprises throughout different industries focusing especially on textiles, clothing and footwear and the electronics industry and in different regions and cities within China: Beijing, Haerbin, Lanzhou, Hangzhou, Wuhan and Kunming. Overall this book provides a detailed account of the everyday implications of economic reform for individuals and families in China.

Economic Reforms and Political Attempts in China 1979-1989 Barna Talas, 2012-12-06. In our quickly changing world authors who are analyzing the social economic and political processes going on in different countries often find themselves in a situation where the development of processes they have already described take a turn in another direction before their work is in final form or appears in print. As a consequence some of their statements are no longer valid. More rarely it occurs that after the writing of a book presenting a reform process covering 10 years the writing itself taking one and a half years, exceptional events take place in the given country within 1 or 2 months of the delivery of the manuscript that indicate a sharp break in this process, one that makes it doubtful whether the process can continue along the same channel. This is what has happened to this text and to its author at the beginning of June 1989 when in Beijing after the brutal suppression of student demonstrations and of protests lasting several weeks the

General Secretary of the Communist Party of China Zhao Ziyang was relieved of his office and arrested along with several other prominent representatives of reform policy and reform endeavors of the past decade The manuscript of this book was handed over to the publisher on May 4 1989 for editing Immediately thereafter I left for nearly 2 months in the United States consequently I did not receive the manuscript again until in early July
