Rise Fall Of The Man Of Letters A Stud:

The Selected Essays of Donald Greene Donald Johnson Greene, 2004 Part III The Terrain of Literature features Greene's examination of a variety of literary approaches to literature in an era when the subject needs to be referred as well to cognitive science as more conventional critical modes even deconstruction that have long defined it Additionally he illuminates important works by writers as various as Jane Austen and Evelyn Waugh These essays as well as the book as a whole are framed here by Greene's assessment of Canadian literature that calls attention to the native terrain that he originally called home and how the latter contributed to the making of one of the most cosmopolitan scholars of his era Jacket

The Social Life of Criticism Kimberly J Stern, 2016-10-17 The Social Life of Criticism explores the cultural representation of the female critic in Victorian Britain focusing especially on how women writers imagined themselves in literary essays periodical reviews and even works of fiction as participants in complex networks of literary exchange Kimberly Stern proposes that in response to the male collectivity prominently featured in critical writings female critics adopted a social and sociological understanding of the profession often reimagining the professional networks and communities they were so eager to join This engaging study begins by looking at the eighteenth century when critical writing started to assume the institutional and generic structures we associate with it today and examines a series of case studies that illuminate how women writers engaged with the forms of intellectual sociability that defined nineteenth century criticism including critical dialogue the club the salon and the publishing firm In doing so it clarifies the fascinating rhetorical and political debates surrounding the figure of the female critic and charts how women writers worked both within and against professional communities Ultimately Stern contends that gender was a formative influence on critical practice from the very beginning presenting the history of criticism as a history of gender politics While firmly grounded in literary studies The Social Life of Criticism combines an attention to historical context with a deep investment in feminist scholarship social theory and print culture The book promises to be of interest not only to professional academics and graduate students in nineteenth century literature but also to scholars in a wide range of disciplines including literature intellectual history cultural studies gender theory and sociology

Men of Letters within the Passes Chang Woei Ong, 2020-03-17 The main theme of this book is the interaction between two places China and Guanzhong the capital area of several dynasties It addresses such questions as What do we mean by local Did the inhabitants of a locality believe that being local required them to assume a certain identity If so how did they talk and write about it Were there spatial and temporal differences in the representation of locales This work examines how Guanzhong literati conceptualized three sets of relations central regional official unofficial and national local It further traces the formation over the last millennium of the imperial state of a critical communal self consciousness the role of this consciousness in constructing a local identity and promoting an unofficial space for nonofficial elite activism and the effect of the presence or absence of this consciousness on literati views of central regional relationships The issue here is not whether there can be a shared national culture but whether this culture can be perceived as having regional variations and therefore contributing to the formation of a local identity The New
