The Economies of Southeast Asia Teofilo C. Daquila,2005 This book analyses the growth development and crisis experiences of the Southeast Asian economies in particular Indonesia Malaysia the Philippines Singapore and Thailand also known as ASEAN 5 The proposition is developed that the robust economic performance of the Southeast Asian economies during the past four decades has been attributed to the various factors developments and independent national policies which have been pursued by the individual member countries rather than to any regional economic framework The book covers eleven topics which is suitable for a one semester course on the economics of Southeast Asia Also it has a narrower area coverage as it focuses only on the five economies namely Indonesia Malaysia the Philippines Singapore and Thailand The sectoral treatment of the crisis impact and the analytical treatment of policy responses to the crisis differentiate this book from other publications on the same topic Finally this book provides an analysis of national developments policies and factors which have contributed to the economic transformation of the respective Southeast Asian economies

European Social Model Assar Lindbeck,2008-06 Developing countries esp the least developed ones have more to learn from social policies in Europe during the early 20th cent than from the elaborate welfare state arrangements after WW2 In addition to macro economic growth and stability the main ambitions must be to fight human deprivation incl illiteracy malnutrition and poor access to water and sanitation in some cases also weak incompetent and or corrupt governments Informal systems in the fields of transfers and social services must not be destroyed when developing countries embark on more formal systems The European experience also warns against the creation of social systems that are so generous that disincentives and receding social norms distort the nat economy

Role of Infrastructure in Land-Use Dynamics and Rice Production in Viet Nam's Mekong River Delta Christopher Edmonds,2008-06 Examines the role of infrastructure development and technical change in explaining increases in agricultural production and changes in land use in the Mekong Delta Region of Viet Nam during the mid 1990s The transportation costs involved in moving agricultural input and output between farms and markets significantly effect farm land use and production decisions Greater transport costs reduce the likelihood that farms adopt intensive cropping patterns or cultivate non rice crops Results suggest that the quality of local water management infrastructure is much more important than transport costs in explaining the increased intensity of land use and level of production observed in the Mekong Delta during the 1990s Illustrations

Framework for Establishing Priorities in a Country Poverty Reduction Strategy Ron Duncan, 2008-05 This paper reviews the history progress of understanding development theory over the past 50 years Development thinking has evolved from an early paradigm that focused on savings capital investment to subsequent arguments favoring the inclusion of human capital policy technical change finally to the inclusion of the role of institutions good governance Secure property rights in the broadest sense which are applicable to all resources not just land are particularly important to realize investment yield This evolution of development thought describes a conceptual framework that can guide development practitioners in prioritizing sequencing characterizing all interventions aimed at reducing poverty
