Look Inside:

LOOKING FOR HAPPINESS? LOOK INSIDE! ALBERTO VEZENDI, 2019-06-07 Why squander our life the only one we have in a permanent state of want and anxiety when we can live a life of abundance and bliss Why make our happiness depend on externalities when the only truly lasting happiness is inside each one of us Why sacrifice the happiness we could be enjoying today on the altar of a vague promise of future bliss when we already have everything we need to be happy in the present In this work the author shows us how to overcome the two main obstacles to happiness attachment and anxiety Readers will see that detachment and the ability to stop worrying are neither gifts of the chosen nor inborn talents reserved for a few but skills that can be learned at any moment in life regardless of our situation In the first part we ll focus on attachment to objects and people We ll see how attachment inevitably leads to fear and that fear is incompatible with happiness We ll examine the role of craving and desire of want and satisfaction of control and freedom of possessions and love and we ll see that precious little is needed to live a happy life In the second part we ll delve into what is probably the main cause of unhappiness anxiety We ll see that most of the worry that taints our happiness is unjustified because it stems from adversities that only exist in our mind To understand this reasoning we ll analyze how we create all our expectations and fears in the present how we project them into a future that is no less a product of our own imagination and how we then await with apprehension the arrival of that future in which we have placed our hopes and misgivings Happiness is not an unattainable dream not even a future goal we re doomed to pursue forever in vain but a natural innate gift we ve all been endowed with We have now and always have had all the happiness we ll ever have but we don t allow it to bloom in our lives because we ve unconsciously buried it under an ever thickening layer of impediments that prevent it from manifesting every day of our life This book is here to help you find your happiness but to do so it has to challenge many of the received ideas and dogmas that for centuries have condemned humanity to unhappiness Please read it with an open mind and consider with fairness whether the ideas contained herein make any sense for you When doing so be honest with yourself and don t let other people s opinions influence your conclusions Remember that ultimately you are your only judge and that on your deathbed the opinions other people may have about you will not change the verdict of your conscience about how you lived your own life Your happiness is in your own hands and nowhere else for only you can make it real Let this book help you drop the ballast of your worries and attachments and glide smoothly through life The solution is inside discover it and let the magic happen Don t wait until it s too late it s now or never

Responsibilities of the Non-State Actor in Armed Conflict and the Market Place Noemi Gal-Or, Cedric Ryngaert, Math Noortmann, 2015-05-12 The central question of this pioneer work on the responsibility of non state actors NSAs and the consequences thereof is To whom are such actors in particular armed opposition groups and business corporations accountable for their actions in armed conflict and in peace times Does responsibility in international law apply to these NSAs qua groups While much has been written about NSAs rights and participation in the global theatre as well as the responsibility of the state and international organisations for wrongful acts by NSAs scant attention has been paid to questions of NSA organizational responsibility in spite of their potential to wreak international havoc This volume offers innovative insights into this unexplored territory by analyzing responsibility questions from both theoretical and empirical perspectives

The Fear In Her Eyes Grant McKenzie, 2014-06-10 From internationally acclaimed thriller writer Grant McKenzie comes a novel that hits perilously close to home and will keep you guessing until the last page What if everything you believed about the worst event in your life was a lie Ian Quinn s day begins with an anonymous death threat but that s not entirely unusual in his line of work as a court ordered child protection officer The frustrated parents of his clients often need someone to lash out at and Ian makes sure that he is the easiest target But the threat is nothing compared to the envelope stuffed into his hand by a foul smelling vagrant who mutters the cryptic message He says he s sorry before scurrying away The envelope with his name scrawled across the front contains a lone visitor s pass to the Oregon State Penitentiary and the accompanying message fills Ian s heart with both terror and revulsion The author of the note destroyed Ian s life In the blink of an eye this drunk driving scum took the most precious thing in Ian s life Worst of all Ian had watched it happen And now the bastard wants to see him The message is short Only seven words I was paid to kill your daughter

Looking Inward Jennifer Bryan, 2008-01-02 You must see yourself The exhortation was increasingly familiar to English men and women in the two centuries before the Reformation They encountered it repeatedly in their devotional books the popular guides to spiritual self improvement that were reaching an ever growing readership at the end of the Middle Ages But what did it mean to see oneself What was the nature of the self to be envisioned and what eyes and mirrors were needed to see and know it properly Looking Inward traces a complex network of answers to such questions exploring how English readers between 1350 and 1550 learned to envision examine and change themselves in the mirrors of devotional literature By all accounts it was the most popular literature of the period With literacy on the rise an outpouring of translations and adaptations flowed across traditional boundaries between religious and lay and between female and male audiences As forms of piety changed as social categories became increasingly porous and as the heart became an increasingly privileged and contested location the growth of devotional reading created a crucial arena for the making of literate subjectivities The models of private reading and self reflection constructed therein would have important implications not only for English spirituality but for social political and poetic identities up to the Reformation and beyond In Looking Inward Bryan examines a wide range of devotional and secular texts from works by Walter Hilton Julian of Norwich and Thomas Hoccleve to neglected translations like The Chastising of God's Children and The Pricking of Love She explores the models of identification and imitation through which they sought to reach the inmost selves of their readers and the scripts for spiritual desire that they offered for the cultivation of the heart Illuminating the psychological paradigms at the heart of the genre Bryan provides fresh insights into how late medieval men and women sought to know labor in and profit themselves by means of books
