Qualitative Research in Social Work Ian Shaw, Nick Gould, 2001-10-04 A really fine book an impressive work that adds much to the development of the use of qualitative methodology in social work research. William J Reid University at Albany. The back cover of the book proclaims that Qualitative Research in Social Work will be essential reading for all students practitioners and researchers undertaking social work research. That just about sums it up for me. British Journal of Social Work. This book is a significant milestone in the development of social work research. It is characterized by an unparalleled command of the field of qualitative research in social work and by a commitment to an understanding of the demands and potential of day to day social work practice Mike Fisher Director of Research National Institute for Social Research Qualitative Research in Social Work edited by Ian Shaw and Nick Gould provides a state of the art exposition and analysis of qualitative inquiry in relation to social work The book has an unusual degree of coherence for one with several authors The five chapters by the editors parts one and three do an exceptional job of providing the necessary background information and setting the context for the six application chapters and of highlighting and discussing the issues raised in those chapters The editors are respected scholars well versed in the theory and practice of qualitative research Similarly the contributing authors represent both considerable experience in this field and a diversity of interests This combination makes Qualitative Research in Social Work an excellent text for students practitioners and researchers alike It is a benchmark for social work progress in this area and points the way for the continued development of qualitative inquiry Professor Stanley L Witkin Department of Social Work University of Vermont There is a clear need for a book which treats qualitative research as a substantive theme within social work setting epistemological and methodological issues in a context whereby the agenda is set by and is relevant to social work Qualitative Research in Social Work is just such a book and will be immensely useful for students practitioners and researchers interested in and undertaking social work research In the introductory chapters the co authors set qualitative research within a context of social work developments and problems The central section provides additional topicality and directness through specially commissioned chapters from leading figures in this field each covering key qualitative methods and relating them to social work settings and the final section which reviews qualitative research in social work and aims to exemplify ways in which social work thought and practice can be advanced through research

Research as Resistance, 2e Leslie Allison Brown,Susan Strega,2015 Beyond the Victim:The Politics and Ethics Kamal Fahmi,2007 Street children abandoned or runaway children living on their own can be found in cities all over the world and their numbers are growing despite numerous international programs aimed at helping them All too frequently these children are viewed solely as victims or deviants to be rescued and rehabilitated In Beyond the Victim sociologist Kamal Fahmi draws on eight years of fieldwork with street children in Cairo to portray them in a much different and empowering light Fahmi argues that far from being mere victims or deviants these children in running away from alienating home lives and finding relative freedom in the street are capable of actively defining their situations in their own terms They are able to challenge the roles assigned to children make judgments and develop a network of niches and resources in a teeming metropolis such as Cairo Fahmi suggests that social workers and others need to respect the agency the children display in changing their own lives In addition to collective advocacy with and on behalf of street children social workers should empower them by encouraging their voluntary participation in non formal educational activities
