Digby Sir Wyatt, 2019-11-29 M Digby Sir Wyatt's The History Theory and Practice of Illuminating is a comprehensive exploration of the art and craft of illumination tracing its evolution from medieval manuscripts to contemporary interpretations The book elegantly balances historical narrative with practical insights utilizing a clear and didactic prose style that caters to both scholars and practitioners Sir Wyatt delves into the intricate techniques employed by renowned illuminators meticulously detailing the materials tools and workflows that define this unique artistic discipline all while situating illumination within the broader context of art history and decorative styles M Digby Sir Wyatt an art historian and practitioner of illumination himself draws on his extensive background in fine arts and craftsmanship His passion for this revered art form is evident in his thorough research and personal anecdotes reflecting the interdisciplinary nature of his scholarship Sir Wyatt's insights are informed by both historical texts and hands on experience allowing for a rich tapestry of knowledge that will resonate with readers concerned with the preservation and revitalization of traditional arts This book is an invaluable resource for artists historians and enthusiasts alike It offers profound insights into the technical aspects of illumination while fostering a deeper appreciation for its historical context Whether you are looking to refine your artistic skills or deepen your understanding of this exquisite form of art Sir Wyatt's work promises to be an essential companion      Meditation as Spiritual Therapy Matthew McWhorter, Matthew R. McWhorter, 2024 Christian persons today might seek spiritual development and ponder the benefit of mindfulness exercises but also maintain concerns if they perceive such exercises to originate from other religious traditions Such persons may not be aware of a long tradition of meditation practice in Christianity that promotes personal growth This spiritual tradition receives a careful formulation by Christian monastic authors in the twelfth century One such teaching on meditation is found in the treatise De consideratione written by St Bernard of Clairvaux d 1153 to Pope Eugene III d 1153 In textual passages where St Bernard exhibits a clear concern for the mental health of the Pope due to numerous ongoing ecclesial political and military problems St Bernard reminds Eugene III of his original monastic vocation and the meditation exercises associated with that vocation The advice that St Bernard gives to Eugene III can be received today in a way that provides a structure for Christian meditation practice which is relevant for personal development spiritual direction and civil psychotherapy that integrates a client's spirituality into the course of treatment St Bernard thus might be interpreted as a teacher of a kind of Christian mindfulness that can benefit both a person's mental health as well as a person's relationship with God Meditation as Spiritual Therapy examines the historical context of Bernard's work his purpose for writing it as well as the numerous Christian sources he drew upon to formulate his teaching Bernard's teaching on the course of meditation itself is explored in depth and in dialogue with his other treatises letters and sermons Lastly a contemporary summary of Bernard's teaching is provided with reflections concerning the relationship of this teaching to contemporary spiritual
