Max's Magic School Magic Colour:

Max's Magic School Harley Black, 2000 Color Me a Rainbow (Book 2 Magic Jukebox Series) Judith Arnold, 2024-07-15

When she finds herself homeless after breaking up with her boyfriend artist Emma Glendon accepts her best friend's invitation to share a rental house in Brogan's Point. But their absentee landlord Max Tarloff has come to town from his home in San Francisco to sell the house which will mean evicting his tenants. Max is a high tech brainiac and a self-made millionaire. Emma is a painter and a free spirit. They have nothing in common except the jukebox which plays Color Me a Rainbow and forces them to recognize their own colors, hues that can match and blend magnificently if the magic of the jukebox has its way.

Bowlby's theory of maternal deprivation proposes that a child's early separation from their primary caregiver, usually the mother, can have negative effects on their emotional and social development and can lead to so many problems as they grow older. The loss of a parent or forceful separation causes extreme psychological harm. Separated from a parent, the child feels fear, abandonment, loss, the end of his or her world, tiny and limited as it is held together only by a mother's touch and love. Comfort in a hug, security in a loving gaze has disappeared. I'd like to end my story with referring to all the false things ever said about me as a mother and of my character as a mirror, and that writing this book, my hope is to shatter that false narrative of me as a mother, the mirror. To begin finally breaking apart piece by piece.
