Maya Cultural Heritage Patricia A. McAnany, 2016-09-15 Situated at the intersection of cultural heritage and local community, this book enlarges our understanding of the Indigenous peoples of southern Mexico and northern Central America who became detached from the ancient Maya through colonialism, government actions, and early twentieth-century anthropological and archaeological research. Through grass roots heritage programs, local communities are reconnecting with a much valorized but distant past. Maya Cultural Heritage explores how community programs conceived and implemented in a collaborative style are changing the relationship among archaeological practice, the objects of archaeological study, and contemporary ethnolinguistic Mayan communities. Rather than simply describing Maya sites, McAnany concentrates on the dialogue nurtured by these participatory heritage programs, the new heritage landscapes they foster, and how the diverse Maya communities of today relate to those of the past.

Architecture Martin van der Linden, 2021-03-12 The question of what architecture is answered in this book with one sentence: Architecture is space created for human activities. The basic need to find food and water places these activities within a larger spatial field. Humans have learned and found ways to adjust to the various contextual difficulties that they faced as they roamed the earth. Thus, rather than adapting, humans have always tried to change the context to their activities. Humanity has looked at the context not merely as a limitation but rather as a spatial situation filled with opportunities that allows, through intellectual interaction, to change these limitations. Thus, humanity has created within the world their own contextual bubble that firmly stands against the larger context it is set in. The key notion of the book is that architecture is space carved out of and against the context, and that this process is deterministic.
