Photography And Literature:

Photography and Literature in the Twentieth Century David Cunningham, Andrew Fisher, Sas Mays, 2005

Photography and Literature in the Twentieth Century offers an accessible and fresh approach to an object of interdisciplinary research that is currently receiving increased international attention. Providing a broad historical schema and examining pivotal moments within it, the collection brings together a range of writers and practitioners who help to guide the reader through a historical cross section of current work in this area. Unlike most existing studies, this volume considers both key literary figures from Proust to Sebald and photographic practitioners from Heartfield to Sekula in order to give a commanding overview of its subject that is both well informed and often ground breaking. With original and accessible essays by acknowledged experts in the field, this is a book that should be of interest not only to students and teachers in departments of literature and photography but also to those in cultural studies and art history as well as photographic artists.

Photography and Literature François Brunet, 2009. Photography photographs. The Language of Vision Joseph R. Millichap, 2016. The Language of Vision celebrates and interprets the complementary expressions of photography and literature in the South. Southern imagery and text affect one another, explains Joseph R. Millichap, as intertextual languages and influential visions. Focusing on the 1930s and including significant works both before and after this preeminent decade, Millichap uncovers fascinating convergences between mediums, particularly in the interplay of documentary realism and subjective modernism. Millichap's subjects range from William Faulkner's fiction, perhaps the best representation of literary and graphic tensions of the period, and the work of other major figures like Robert Penn Warren and Eudora Welty to specific novels including Ralph Ellison's Invisible Man and James Agee's Let Us Now Praise Famous Men. Fleshing out historical and cultural background as well as critical and theoretical context, Millichap shows how these texts echo and inform the visual medium to reveal personal insights and cultural meanings. Warren's fictions and poems, Millichap argues, redefine literary and graphic tensions throughout the late twentieth century. Welty's narratives and photographs reinterpret gender, race, and class, and Ellison's analysis of race in segregated America draws from contemporary photography. Millichap also traces these themes and visions in Natasha Trethewey's contemporary poetry and prose, revealing how the resonances of these artistic and historical developments extend into the new century. This groundbreaking study reads southern literature across time through the prism of photography, offering a brilliant formulation of the dialectic art forms.

Photo-textualities Marsha Bryant, 1996. This anthology investigates books that juxtapose photographs and written language, photo texts, considering a variety of examples from America, Britain, Canada, and France. Ranging from Nathaniel Hawthorne's The Marble Faun to Michael Ondaatje's postmodern novel Coming Through Slaughter and Edward Said's postdocumentary After the Last Sky, the contributors' analyses address photo-textuality's implications for representation and its cultural contexts. A truly interdisciplinary collection, Photo-Textualities features contributors who work in literary studies, English, romance languages, as well as contributors who work in media studies film graphic arts Photo Textualities invigorates critical inquiry with its range of literary and photographic genres including photo texts that elude genre classification Besides documentary and biography nonfiction literary genres include autobiography and travelogue The range of photographic genres extends to landscapes portraiture documentary tourist snapshots and media images as well as to the standard photo textual forms of published album and photo essay
