Practical Intelligence Roger Peters, 1987

The Improvement of Practical Intelligence Robert Bruce Raup, 1950

Mechanisms of Everyday Cognition James M. Puckett, Hayne W. Reese, 2018-10-24 Based on the proceedings of the twelfth biennial conference on life-span developmental psychology, most of the contributions in this volume deal with the mechanisms of everyday cognition. However, a broad spectrum of additional concerns is addressed within the domain of everyday cognition: its metatheoretical underpinnings, theory and theoretical issues, methods of investigation, empirical considerations, and social issues and applications. Addressing everyday cognition in infancy, childhood, adolescence, young and middle adulthood, and old age, this book is consistent with the chronological life-span theme of this series. The contributors collectively discuss some of the traditional concerns of life-span psychology: the dialectical nature of everyday cognition, individual differences, and contextual influences. Leading and concluding chapters provide overview, integration, and summary. In bringing together a wide array of age periods and points of view within the domain of everyday cognition, the editors hope that students and researchers in developmental psychology and cognitive science will find a useful cross-fertilization of ideas. A huge variety of theoretical perspectives is presented, ranging from the position that everyday cognition and academic laboratory cognition are different manifestations of the same underlying processes to the position that the underlying processes are completely separate. Also of importance, a large assortment of research methods is illustrated, including interviews, laboratory simulations, real-life observations, and psychometric methods.

Individual Differences and Instructed Language Learning Peter Robinson, 2002-09-27 Second language learners differ in how successfully they adapt to and profit from instruction. This book aims to show that adaptation to L2 instruction and subsequent L2 learning is a result of the interaction between learner characteristics and learning contexts. Describing and explaining these interactions is fundamentally important to theories of instructed SLA and for effective L2 pedagogy. This collection is the first to explore this important issue in contemporary task-based, immersion, and communicative pedagogic settings. In the first section, leading experts in individual differences research describe recent advances in theories of intelligence, L2 aptitude, motivation, anxiety, and emotion, and the relationship of native language abilities to L2 learning. In the second section, these theoretical insights are applied to empirical studies of individual differences, treatment interactions in classroom learning, experimental studies of the effects of focus on form and incidental learning, and studies of naturalistic versus instructed SLA.

College Admissions for the 21st Century Robert J. Sternberg, 2010-10-01 SATs ACTs GPAs Everyone knows that these scores can t tell a college everything that s important about an applicant But what else should admissions officers look for and how can they know it when they see it In College Admissions for the 21st Century a leading researcher on intelligence and creativity offers a bold and practical approach to college admissions testing Standardized tests are measures of memory and analytical skills But the ever changing global society beyond a college campus needs more than just those qualities argues Robert Sternberg Tomorrow s leaders and citizens also need creativity practicality and wisdom How can the potential for those complex qualities be measured One answer is Kaleidoscope a new initiative in undergraduate admissions first used at Tufts University Its open ended questions for applicants and the means used to score the answers gives applicants and admissions officers the chance to go beyond standardized tests Does it work As Sternberg describes in detail Kaleidoscope measures predicted first year academic success over and above SATs and high school GPAs and predicted first year extracurricular activities leadership and active citizenship as well And every year that Kaleidoscope measures were used the entering class s average SATs and high school GPAs went up too What worked at Tufts can work elsewhere New kinds of assessments like Kaleidoscope can liberate many colleges and students from the narrowness of standardized tests and inspire new approaches to teaching for new kinds of talented motivated citizens of the world

Studies in Leading and Organizing Schools Cecil Miskel, Wayne K. Hoy, 2003-04-01 This volume provides a mix of beginning and established scholars and a range of theoretical perspectives Eight separate but related analyses were selected for publication this year The book begins with a chapter by Sims and Miskel which examines national reading policy as part of a broader federal government agenda on children s literacy Using a model of punctuated equilibrium they trace the peaks of congressional and media attention to literacy Their findings reveal that the broad level of literacy has remained a rather active and durable policy issue for more than three decades When however the analysis shifts to different targets that is from elementary and secondary school students to adults and youth to LEP individuals there are distinct patterns of punctuation and equilibrium The researchers conclude that the specific issue of children s literacy in the 1990s is the latest version or episode of literacy policy produced by shifting images and venues
